Virtual Community Finding Connection In A Computerized World:

Teletechnologies, Place, and Community Rowan Wilken, 2014-02-07 Teletechnologies or technologies of distance cannot be ignored. Indeed, the present electronic age is said to have wrought profound changes to how we think about and experience who we are, where we are, and how we relate with one another. Place and community have traditionally formed key concepts for thinking about these issues, but what relevance do these concepts now hold for us? In this wide-ranging study, Wilken re-evaluates how ideas of place and community intersect with and help us make sense of a world transformed by information and communication technologies. This interdisciplinary investigation ranges across diverse textual and contextual terrain, exploring approaches from media and communications, architectural history and theory, philosophy, sociology, geography, literature, and urban design. The rich analysis of these myriad texts reveals the complex and at times contradictory ways in which notions of place and community circulate in relation to these technologies of distance. Wilken's examination underscores both the enduring importance of ideas of place and community in the present age and the urgent need to continue to engage with, think about, and reconfigure these twin ideas. The Virtual Community Howard Rheingold, 1994

The Media Reader Hugh Mackay, Tim O'Sullivan, 1999-06-22 Featuring key statements regarding the influence of the media in areas that include identity, technology, economics, globalisation, and surveillance. The Media Reader presents ideas that stress its growing importance as a sector of the economy. Computer-Mediated Communication Caleb T.

Carr, 2025-01-15 Carr introduces fundamental concepts, theories, and applications of CMC. Building on CFO, SIP, SIDE, and hyperpersonal theories, this engaging text provides a framework across all digital channels. The second edition adds a new chapter on health and wellbeing, as well as increased discussion of AI and immersive VR and AR technologies. Computer Mediated Communication Crispin Thurlow, Laura Lengel, Alice Tomic, 2004-02-25 This is a uniquely friendly and easy-to-understand treatment of the complex theories and findings that surround CMC. Communication is often complicated, and computerization makes it stranger still, yet the authors have deftly demystified both the miraculous and the mundane of computer-mediated interaction.

Internationalizing the Internet Byung-Keun Kim, 2005 This compelling book focuses on the global formation of the Internet system. It contests the common belief that the Internet's adoption was inevitable and instead examines the social and economic processes that allowed it to prevail over competing standards and methods for achieving a global information infrastructure. The author demonstrates how the current Internet system was not the only possible choice nor the best data network in terms of technological and economic performance. It is therefore vital, he argues, to understand the way in which different political and economic interests have helped shape the Internet and allowed it to overcome rival technologies. Issues of particular importance include the role of negotiations among different social groups in the design of the Internet, as well as the influence of US promotion. The author also examines patterns of growth and pervasiveness of the Internet between different regions and countries, providing new evidence on the factors influencing the extent of the digital divide Using econometric models he goes on to identify the features of the co evolution of the Internet and other sub systems within countries and highlights the most interesting features of their local and global interplay Researchers and academics involved with science and technology policy industrial and corporate change and the information society will welcome this insightful original and highly pertinent book It will also be of value for anyone with an interest in how the backbone of the digital economy was formed Network and Netplay Fay Sudweeks, Margaret L. McLaughlin, Sheizaf Rafaeli, 1998 This text addresses the mutual influences between information technology and group formation and development in order to assess the impact of computer mediated communications on both work and play Areas discussed include the growth of the Internet and the nature of network communication Virtually Islamic Gary R.
