In the Vale of Tears Roland Boer, 2013-10-10 Winner of the 2014 Isaac and Tamara Deutscher Memorial Prize In the Vale of Tears brings to a culmination the project for a renewed and enlivened debate over the interaction between Marxism and religion It does so by offering the author's own response to that tradition It simultaneously draws upon the rich insights of a significant number of Western Marxists and strikes out on its own Thus it argues for the crucial role of political myth on the Left explores the political ambivalence at the heart of Christianity challenges the bent among many on the Left to favour the unexpected rupture of kair's as a key to revolution is highly suspicious of the ideological and class alignments of ethics offers a thorough reassessment of the role of fetishism in the Marxist tradition and broaches the question of death unavoidable for any Marxist engagement with religion While the book is the conclusion to the five volume series The Criticism of Heaven and Earth it also stands alone as a distinct intervention in some burning issues of our time

French theories on text and discourse Driss Ablali, Guy Achard-Bayle, 2023-01-30 It could be alleged that present day French linguistics is characterized by a specific connection between the epistemology of text and that of discourse The contributions gathered in this volume aim to reconsider this link or dichotomy in light of the latest research developments They are organized in three parts the first explores the text discourse connection while the second and third tackle the epistemologies of text and discourse

Bibliographia Malebranchiana Patricia Easton, Thomas M. Lennon, Gregor Sebba, 1992 This bibliography consists of 936 numbered entries with references to a far greater number of works. The first part covers works by Malebranche and consists of six sections on his collected works, selections from his works, his individual works, translations of his works, his correspondence, and the controversies into which he entered. The second part deals with works on Malebranche and consists of other bibliographical sources, biographical references, and studies. As a critical bibliography, this book contains not only references to reviews but also a brief critical assessment for most entries. An extensive index is included, and much of the material is cross-referenced. Entries note when a work has been superseded and refer the reader to the more recent work.

Far Afield Vincent Debaene, 2014-04-04 Anthropology has long had a vexed relationship with literature, and nowhere has this been more acutely felt than in France, where most ethnographers upon returning from the field write not one book but two: a scientific monograph and a literary account. In Far Afield brought to English language readers here for the first time, Vincent Debaene puzzles out this phenomenon, tracing the contours of anthropology and literature's mutual fascination and the ground upon which they meet in the works of thinkers from Marcel Mauss and Georges Bataille to Claude Lévi-Strauss and Roland Barthes. The relationship between anthropology and literature in France is one of careful curiosity. Literary writers are wary of anthropologists' scientific austerity but intrigued by the objects they collect and the issues they raise, while anthropologists claim to be scientists but at the same time are deeply concerned with writing and representational practices. Debaene elucidates the richness that this curiosity fosters and the diverse range of writings it has produced, from Proustian memoirs to proto-surrealist diaries. In the end, he offers a fascinating intellectual history, one that is itself located precisely where science and literature meet.
