Marx's Construction of Social Theory (RLE Marxism) J.M. Barbalet,2015-04-17 This study first published in 1983 explores the connections between Marx s philosophy and his empirical analysis of society and state by showing the different meanings of many of Marx s concepts as their role in his theory changes and the theory itself develops Beginning with an examination of Marx s search for a sound epistemological basis on which to build a social theory Dr Barbalet then gives an analysis of the way in which Marx continually modifies the concepts he uses and continues with an examination of the different functions they are given in different theoretical settings Various nuances of Marx s thought often obscured by the simplistic early late dichotomy are revealed by Dr Barbalet s close attention to the progressive transformation of Marx s concepts and by his scrupulous analysis of them in not only their textual but also their theoretical context Finally the book examines the manner in which Marx s construction of social theory by its very nature means that some material is replaced by other theoretical fabric as the theoretical structure itself is in different ways dismantled and reorganised as Marx s thought evolves and develops

Early Scholastic Christology 1050-1250 Richard Cross,2024-09-16 This book traces developments in Christology and specifically the metaphysics of the union of divine and human natures in one person from 1050 the age of Anselm of Canterbury to 1250 the age of Albert the Great During the first part of the period the key issue is the conflict between Augustine s homo assumptus assumed man Christology defended by the Victorines and that of Boethius

s Chalcedonian Christology defended by Gilbert of Poitiers sometimes known as the subsistence theory By 1180 the latter of these was almost universally accepted A third view apparently accepted by Peter Lombard among others according to which it is not true that Christ as man is something the non aliquid Christology was condemned in 1177 The second part of the book traces the way in which theologians attempted to develop the presentation of Conciliar Christology by working out inchoate solutions to some of the metaphysical questions that the issue raises what is the nature of the hypostatic union between the two natures or the human nature and the divine person is it something created or something uncreated And given that the human nature is a particular substance what prevents it from being a person Theologians used insights from both of the rejected theories the homo assumptus Christology and the non aliquid Christology in attempting to answer these issues The early thirteenth century saw both the founding of the universities of Paris and Oxford and the founding of the Franciscan and Dominican orders The book explores the impact of these religious identities on the formation of Christological teaching
