Widows' Words Nan Bauer-Maglin, 2019-05-03 Becoming a widow is one of the most traumatic life events that a woman can experience Yet as this remarkable new collection reveals each woman responds to that trauma differently Here forty three widows tell their stories in their own words Some were widowed young while others were married for decades Some cared for their late partners through long terminal illnesses while others lost their partners suddenly Some had male partners while others had female partners Yet each of these women faced the same basic dilemma how to go on living when a part of you is gone Widows Words is arranged chronologically starting with stories of women preparing for their partners deaths followed by the experiences of recent widows still reeling from their fresh loss and culminating in the accounts of women who lost their partners many years ago but still experience waves of grief Their accounts deal honestly with feelings of pain sorrow and despair and yet there are also powerful expressions of strength hope and even joy Whether you are a widow yourself or have simply experienced loss you will be sure to find something moving and profound in these diverse tales of mourning remembrance and resilience labor for male plowing services although a few women took up the plow themselves The study also explores widows access to key economic resources such as land credit and education War decimated widows family support networks including the loss of children their social security The study concludes that Cambodia s gender arrangement offered many economic options to widows but also devalued their labor in a cultural structure of inequality Gender poverty and war interacted to reduce widows financial resources accounting for their economic vulnerability
