EBOOK: Cross Cultural Perspectives on Educational Research Anna Robinson-Pant, 2005-11-16 Winner of the BMW Group LIFE Award for Contribution to Intercultural Learning 2007 The research student population of higher educational institutions continues to expand to include people from an ever widening range of cultural and educational backgrounds However many research methods courses are still directed at the traditional student population This book examines aspects of postgraduate research from a cross cultural perspective analysing the dilemmas faced by international students when defining a research question choosing research methods collecting data deciding which language to use and writing their theses Through an exploration of how international students re-examine their beliefs and research practices during their study in the UK this book challenges the assumptions of all those engaged in educational research addressing key questions such as How do our teaching and learning experiences shape our approach to educational research How do we judge good educational research What does it mean to be critical The book uses the real life experiences of international students to illuminate the kinds of challenges they may face It supports both students and their supervisors showing students how to approach cultural differences and supervisors how to deal sensitively with the problems encountered by overseas students in their research

International Students' Multilingual Literacy Practices Peter I. De Costa, Wendy Li, Jongbong Lee, 2022-08-04 This book presents the results of research that focused on international students receiving writing instruction on a US university campus It explores how the students developed their foreign student identities and their own ways of grappling with the unique issues they encountered as they worked to improve their academic literacy skills The book extends the theoretical horizons of language socialization research by integrating insights from other disciplinary frameworks such as a translingual approach multilingual literacies and writing center theory to explore international students university experiences By adopting these varied lenses the book provides readers with a more holistic integrative and ecological understanding of students language and literacy development The authors also investigate how a translingual pedagogy informs language instructors and literacy instructors in facilitating multilingual students academic literacy development across a variety of codes registers genres modes and media

What Writing Does and How It Does It Charles Bazerman, Paul Prior, 2003-12-08 In What Writing Does and How It Does It editors Charles Bazerman and Paul Prior offer a sophisticated introduction to methods for understanding studying and analyzing texts and writing practices This volume addresses a variety of approaches to analyzing texts and considers the processes of writing exploring textual practices and their contexts and examining what texts do and how texts mean rather than what they mean Included are traditional modes of analysis rhetorical literary linguistic as well as newer modes such as text and talk genre and activity analysis and intertextual analysis The chapters have been developed to provide answers to a specified set of questions with each one offering a preview of the chapter's content and purpose an introduction to basic concepts referring to key theoretical and research studies in the area details on the types of data and questions for which the analysis is best used examples from a wide ranging group of texts including educational materials student writing published literature and online and electronic media one or more applied analyses with a clear statement of procedures for analysis and illustrations of a particular sample of data and a brief summary suggestions for additional readings and a set of activities The side by side comparison of methods allows the reader to see the multi dimensionality of writing facilitating selection of the best method for a particular research question The volume contributors are experts from linguistics communication studies rhetoric literary analysis document design sociolinguistics education ethnography and cultural psychology and each utilizes a specific mode of text analysis With its broad range of methodological examples What Writing Does and How It Does It is a unique and invaluable resource for advanced undergraduate and graduate students and for researchers in education composition ESL and applied linguistics communication L1 and L2 learning print media and electronic media It will also be useful in all social sciences and humanities that place importance on texts and textual practices such as English writing and rhetoric

Domain-specific English Giuseppina Cortese, Philip Riley, 2002 Domain specific discourse in English forms a continuum across the academic professional and technical genres of all areas of knowledge This collection of papers by scholars working in a variety of disciplines cultural and institutional contexts forms an analytical and methodological framework for the discussion of a wide range of writing related issues problems and practices The diversity of topics and perspectives represented here including corpus based approaches discourse analysis and contrastive rhetoric teaching methodology and domain specific literacy criticalness linguistic ascendancy and the emergence of scientific English identity and social epistemology attests to the vitality and variety of sociolinguistic research in this complex and rapidly developing field

Disciplinary Discourses Ken Hyland, 2000 Applied Linguistics and Language Study General Editor Christopher N Candlin Chair Professor of Applied Linguistics Centre for English Language Education Communication Research Department of English City University of Hong Kong Hong Kong Since it was first established in the 1970 s the Applied Linguistics and Language Study series has become a major force in the study of practical problems in human communication and language education Drawing extensively on empirical research and theoretical work in linguistics sociology psychology and education the series explores key issues in language acquisition and language use Disciplinary Discourses Social Interactions in Academic Writing presents a series of innovative studies focusing on eight disciplines and a variety of key genres to examine the relationships between the cultures of academic communities and their discursive practices. It proposes a framework to account for the interactions between writers and their readers in published academic writing, draws clear teaching suggestions and offers detailed methodological principles and suggestions to support further research. Drawing on discourse analysis, corpus linguistics and the voices of professional insiders, Ken Hyland explores how academics use language to organise their professional lives, carry out intellectual tasks and reach agreement on what will count as knowledge. Through its focus on the features of key genres, this book shows what close textual analyses can reveal about the social practices and institutional ideologies of different academic communities and at the same time provides a clear basis for further research. The theoretical and descriptive accounts have strong practical implications for the understanding of academic writing and disciplinary communities. It will therefore be of great interest to teachers and students of academic writing.

English for Specific Purposes and discourse analysis more generally Ken Hyland is an Associate Professor in the Department of English City University of Hong Kong

The Oral-literate Connection Diane Dewhurst Belcher, Alan Hirvela, 2008 The Oral Literate Connection Perspectives on L2 Speaking Writing and Other Media Interactions presents the most current insights from research and theory on the numerous ways in which L2 speaking and writing support and enhance each other. Contributors to this collection not only report on recent research and theoretical developments but also on state of the art pedagogical practices linking oral skills and literacy. Although research and theory are informed by practice throughout the text, its four parts, the thematic organization proceeds from more theoretical and research oriented issues to more classroom based perspectives. Theory and research on the interaction between speaking and writing. How speaking scaffolds writing. How writing scaffolds speaking. How technology bridges speaking and writing. This volume offers readers both a compelling rationale for connecting speaking and writing in the L2 classroom and an informed means of making these connections. A wide array of theoretical and classroom oriented topics is offered ranging from sociocultural and second language acquisition theory to classroom concordancing and blogging. The book has a foreword by John M Swales and an Afterword by Paul Kei Matsuda.

Colporu! Gregory James, 2000 Reading Strategies and Practices Robert J. Tierney, John E. Readence, 2000 This book is a compendium of strategies; it is not a description of a single approach nor is it intended to be eclectic. The inclusion of a strategy should not be perceived as our endorsement of that strategy. There are some strategies that we view as problematic, there are others about which we disagree.

Unity and Diversity in Language Use British Association for Applied Linguistics. Meeting, Kristyan Spelman Miller, 2002 The papers in this collection reflect the diversity of approach within the field of applied linguistics at the start of the 21st century. Each paper prompts critical reflection on tensions within the discipline between stability and change, consensus and controversy, similarity and variation.
