Title List of Documents Made Publicly Available, 1984 Eton College Chronicle Eton College, 1898 Public Transit Economics and Deregulation Policy J. Berechman, 2013-10-22 Drawing on transit experience from various countries and markets this book examines the economic environment of transit operations the cost and production properties of transit service supply and the policies and prospects of transit regulatory reform The principal objectives of the book are first to conduct theoretical and empirical analyses of the major factors which jointly determine the economic structure and conditions of the transit sector and second to explore and suggest policies which could resolve the sector's present crisis and make it economically viable The first objective is explored in Part One where major structural demand factors and regulatory and subsidy conditions are identified and examined Analytical and empirical measurement of technical production characteristics of transit services supply is carried out in Part Two Part Three focuses on transit regulatory reform policy issues The book is aimed primarily at an audience of transportation professionals including economists and planners as well as public policy analysts It requires in general a sound background in economics mainly microeconomics Thus graduate students in economics geography urban planning and public policy and advanced undergraduates with good training in economics can best benefit from this book Surprise Christopher R. Miller, Today in the era of the spoiler alert surprise in fiction is primarily associated with an unexpected plot twist but in earlier usage the word had darker and more complex meanings Originally denoting a military ambush or physical assault surprise went through a major semantic shift in the eighteenth century from violent attack to pleasurable experience and from external event to internal feeling In Surprise

Christopher R Miller studies that change as it took shape in literature ranging from Paradise Lost through the novels of Jane Austen Miller argues that writers of the period exploited and arbitrated the dual nature of surprise in its sinister and benign forms Even as surprise came to be associated with pleasure it continued to be perceived as a problem a sign of ignorance or na vet an uncontrollable reflex a paralysis of rationality and an experience of mere novelty or diversion for its own sake In close readings of exemplary scenes particularly those involving astonished or petrified characters Miller shows how novelists sought to harness the energies of surprise toward edifying or comic ends while registering its underpinnings in violence and mortal danger In the Roman poet Horace s famous axiom poetry should instruct and delight but in the early eighteenth century Joseph Addison signally amended that formula to suggest that the imaginative arts should surprise and delight Investigating the significance of that substitution Miller traces an intellectual history of surprise involving Aristotelian poetics Cartesian philosophy Enlightenment concepts of the passions eighteenth century literary criticism and aesthetics and modern emotion theory Miller goes on to offer a fresh reading of what it means to be surprised by sin in Paradise Lost showing how Milton s epic both harks back to the symbolic functions of violence in allegory and looks ahead to the moral contours of the novel Subsequent chapters study the Miltonic ramifications of surprise in the novels of Defoe Haywood Richardson Fielding and Sterne as well as in the poems of Wordsworth and Keats By focusing on surprise in its inflections as emotion cognition and event Miller s book illuminates connections between allegory and formal realism between aesthetic discourse and prose fiction and between novel and lyric and it offers new ways of thinking about the aesthetic and ethical dimensions of the novel as the genre emerged in the eighteenth century
