Threads of Identity Sofia Mercer, 2025-10-22. Threads of Identity explores how Telfar, JW Anderson and Chromat challenged fashion's boundaries of gender, race and inclusion. With slogans like 'Not for You For Everyone' and runway shows celebrating diverse bodies, these brands redefined accessibility and authenticity. This book examines how clothing became a stage for identity politics and why fashion evolved into a platform for empowerment. By telling stories of resistance, representation and reinvention, it reveals how garments stitched together movements as much as they stitched seams: fashion as activism, identity and revolution.

Aspects of Gender Identity and Craft Production in the European Migration Period Sue Harrington, 2008. Grave goods show that women were identified as weavers in the early Anglo-Saxon period rather than specifically spinners as occurs later. A key piece of weaving equipment found in migration era burials is the iron beater shaped during this period like a sword. Spear shaped beaters appear later in the seventh century. This study is centred on a corpus of sword and spear shaped beaters not only from Anglo-Saxon England centred on East Kent but also from Norway where the earliest examples are found and from Alamannia. Conclusions are drawn about the processes and social composition of textile production including any separation of weaving and spinning and discuss why tools associated with the women's task of weaving should be shaped as objects with masculine associations.
