World Development Report 1981:

World Development Report 1981, 1981 This is the fourth in the World Bank's annual series assessing key development issues. Adjustment, global and national, to promote sustainable growth in the changing world economy is the main theme of this report. Recession and inflation in the industrial countries together with the rise in oil prices have been the main forces at work in the world economy in the 1970s. The report examines their effect on developing countries to see how adjustment has been managed and what lessons may be learned for the 1980s. Adjustment occurs through international trade and capital flows and through changes in national production and consumption patterns. The earlier chapters of the report present global and regional projections for the 1980s and consider international aspects of adjustment in trade, energy, and finance. It then turns to adjustment problems of different groups of developing countries and a consideration of the prospects for human development. The report also includes the 1981 World Development Indicators, a set of 25 tables of economic and social indicators for 124 countries.

The Politics of Global Competitiveness Paul Cammack, 2022 Marx predicted in Capital 1867 that as capitalism became global, patterns of work would be transformed and workers would need to develop versatility, flexibility, and mobility. This general law of social production, as he called it, is now in evidence all around us in global value chains, zero hours contracts, and contract work organised through digital platforms. It results from competition between capitalists, scientific and technological revolutions in production, and incessant advances in the division of labour as production processes are broken down into ever smaller steps. This book documents the leading roles of the Paris-based Organisation for Economic Cooperation and Development and the Washington-based World Bank as advocates of these developments. They do not, as generally supposed, simply represent the interests of the advanced economies or the West and their transnational corporations. They promote a single global model of capitalist development without limits and on a genuinely global scale. It calls upon all states to adjust continually to the structural and social demands of competitiveness, which they see as essential to the global hegemony of capital over labour. The OECD and the World Bank propose policies that give girls and women equal access to education and paid work, reform welfare to make work pay, introduce flexible labour contracts that make hiring and firing easier, focus education on skills that boost employability, and draw workers in the developing world from the informal sector into the formal sector where they can be more productive. This is the politics of global competitiveness.

World Development Report 1981 Word Dvlpn, World Bank Group, 1981-09-01 Innovating Development Strategies in Africa Landry Signé, 2017-08-31 This book examines postcolonial strategies for economic development in Africa from the 1960s to the present day.

Industrialization in Kenya Peter E. Coughlin, Gerrishon K. Ikiara, 1988

World Development Report, 1991 This report synthesizes and interprets the lessons of more than forty years of development experience. Together with last year's report on poverty and next year's on the environment, it seeks to provide a comprehensive overview of the development agenda. The 1990s began with dramatic changes as many countries in Eastern Europe and elsewhere initiated ambitious reforms of their economic and political systems Against the backdrop of these transitions this report links the historical debates that counseled policymakers in their past decisions the lessons of experience and the evolving thought on how best to proceed One of the most valuable lessons relates to the interaction between the state and the market in fostering development It describes a market friendly approach in which governments allow markets to function well and in which governments concentrate their interventions on areas in which markets prove inadequate The report looks at four main aspects of the relationship between governments and markets a investing in people b the climate for enterprises to flourish c the integration of countries with the global economy and d a stable macroeconomic foundation for sustained progress The report stresses that above all the future of developing countries is in their own hands Domestic policies and institutions hold the key to successful development World Development Report 1981, 1981

U.S. Foreign Aid Elliott R Morss, 2019-03-13 This book provides a critical assessment of the relationship between development philosophy and the activities of various economic assistance programs during recent decades The authors begin by describing the evolution of development thinking from the Marshall Plan era to the present emphasizing the changing magnitude focus and objectives of su Asian Industrialization and Africa Howard Stein, 1995-06-18 Drawing on case studies from the industrialization of East and Southeast Asian nations this text critically examines the structural adjustment policies used in Africa since the 1980s The Asian country studies include Singapore Malaysia Taiwan South Korea Hong Kong and Meiji Japan International Financial Cooperation Frances Stewart, 2019-03-04 This book presents papers on the recycling of funds from surplus to deficit countries stabilizing the existing International Financial System securing an adequate level of investment return for surplus countries the role of the special drawing rights and mineral and energy financing Foreign assistance and related programs appropriations for 1983 United States. Parliament. Lok Sabha, 1903 Managing the Public Service in Developing Countries Selcuk Ozgediz, Paramjit Sachdeva, 1983 Better management of the public service requires action on three fronts the structural barriers to efficient management must be removed the quality and allocation of human financial informational and physical resources must be improved and the systems and processes used for managing these resources must be reoriented toward performance goals Of these this paper focuses mainly on ways of better managing the human resources of the public service Public service employment in developing countries has been growing about four times as fast as in developed countries in recent years In many countries overstaffing at lower levels is accompanied by shortages of professional and technical staff These shortages are exacerbated by the brain drain Problems of public service training systems in developing countries lead to five policy recommendations raising the status of the training function in government preparing national training policies and plans forging closer links between training and other areas of personnel management strengthening the links between training research and consultancy and expanding international cooperation in training Monographic Series Library of Congress,1982
