

What is formative feedback?

Formative feedback should help learners to learn.

- give evidence of where the learner is up their thinking and make reference to the established success criteria
- explain the activity and learning goal
- give feedback on how the learner can make progress towards that goal

Formative feedback should be given in a way that is visible to the learner to see and stop.

Formative feedback should be given at the appropriate time - activities should be given to the learners whilst they are still open to the feedback.

Formative feedback should be given in a way that is visible to the learner to see and stop.

How might formative feedback be delivered?

Formative feedback types to deliver

When teachers:

- is already present after the completion of the task
- takes the form of comments or praise

When the teacher is not present, formative feedback can be delivered through the established success criteria

When feedback comes from the form of a checklist or the agreed, evidence to the learner usually has to represent the current status.

When using evidence-based feedback it is crucial to provide the feedback to the learner in real time and direct to the point.

Effective feedback should address a range of needs, when it is needed and when it is not.

Steps For Guidance:

Steps for Guidance Peter Masters,1995-01-01 The subject of how to find God's guidance has become controversial Some say it comes by dreams visions and words of knowledge Others say that God does not have a specific plan for His people but allows them to take their own decisions as long as they do so in a wise and moral way By contrast with these ideas this book presents from Scripture the time honoured view that Christians must seek God's will in all the major decisions of life The author outlines six biblical steps for finding God's will giving special attention to key areas such as courtship and marriage possessions and leisure activities Under what circumstances may Christians seek advancement in career and wealth Does the Lord determine which church fellowship a believer should join When is it wrong to leave a church and when is it right Clear biblical answers are given
