Social Problems in Cancer Control Howard P. Greenwald,1980      Cancer Control J. Mark Elwood,Simon B. Sutcliffe,2010-01-07 Cancer control is the term applied to the development of integrated population based approaches to reduce the incidence and mortality from cancer and to minimize its impact on affected individuals and on the community It covers a spectrum of prevention early diagnosis optimal treatment and supportive and palliative care It emphasizes the application of new knowledge gained through research to achieve current best practice Cancer control has become a political priority in many countries in recent years with the evolution of both national and regional cancer control strategic plans The integrated nature of cancer control involving a wide spectrum of health care professionals researchers and health managers and planners is reflected in this multi disciplinary text which is the first in this rapidly developing field      Annual Report - Division of Cancer Control and Rehabilitation National Cancer Institute (U.S.). Rouse,2023-02-07 This book comprises a set of stories about being an engineer for many decades and the lessons the author learned from research and practice These lessons focus on people and organizations often enabled by technology The settings range from airplanes power plants and communication networks to ecosystems that enable education healthcare and transportation All of these settings are laced with behavioral and social phenomena that need to be understood and influenced The author s work in these domains has often led to the question Well why does it work like that He invariably sought to understand the bigger picture to find the sources of requirements constraints norms and values He wanted to understand what could be changed albeit often with much effort to overcome resistance He found that higher levels of an ecosystem often provide the resources and dictate the constraints imposed on lower levels These prescriptions are not just commands They also reflect values and cultural norms Thus the answers to the question were not just technical and economic Often the answers reflected eons of social and political priorities The endeavors related in the book frequently involved addressing emerging realities rather than just the status quo This book is an ongoing discovery of these bigger pictures The stories and the lessons related in this book provide useful perspectives on change The understanding of people and organizations that emerges from these lessons can help to enable transformative change Fundamental change is an intensely human centric endeavor not just for the people and organizations aspiring to change but also for the people helping them You will meet many of these people in this book as the stories unfold The genesis of this book originated in a decision made early in the author s career He had developed a habit of asking at the end of each day What did I really accomplish today This was sometimes frustrating as he was not sure the day had yielded any significant accomplishments One day it dawned on him that this was the wrong question He needed to ask What did I learn today It is always possible to learn most recently about public health and climate change In planning this book the author first thought in terms of accomplishments such as projects conducted systems built and articles and books published He could not imagine this being interesting to readers Then it struck him It is much more interesting to report on what he learned about people and organizations including how he helped them accomplish their goals This is a book of stories about how these lessons emerged In planning this book the author first thought in terms of accomplishments such as projects conducted systems built and articles and books published He could not imagine this being interesting to readers Then it struck him It is much more interesting to report on what he learned about people and organizations including how he helped them accomplish their goals This is a book of stories about how these lessons emerged The Social Welfare Forum

Institute ,1978      Cancer in the Community Martha Levittan Balslem,1993 Focusing on deep conflicts between the medical establishment and the working class Martha Balslem chronicles a health education project in Tannerstown a pseudonym for a blue collar neighborhood in northeast Philadelphia Her study is based on her experience as a health educator and anthropologist at the Fox Chase Cancer Center working with a team of behavioral scientists to educate the public about cancer risk factors Incorporating emotional vivid interviews and rich personal narratives Cancer in the Community addresses such issues as the ethics of professional authority class antagonisms and the politicization of cancer Identified in an epidemiological report as a cancer hot spot Tannerstown was targeted by Fox Chase s Project CAN DO as a community in need of professional guidance Health educators advised residents to stop smoking improve their diets and schedule regular cancer screening tests This advice supposedly regarded by the American public as sound and true nevertheless was rejected by most Tannerstowners who believed industrial pollution from nearby chemical plants and air pollution from traffic were the major causes of cancer in their community Probing the chronic frustration and distrust that persisted between the two groups Balslem found that medical professionals tended to view working class patients as problems in need of correction while Tannerstowners saw doctors as arrogant and controlling The medical professionals believed that cancer risk was largely attributable to lifestyle factors but community residents refused to accept blame for their disease While still part of the Fox Chase team Balslem began to question the right of medical authorities to dictate changes in lifestyle while discounting the residents self diagnosis of environmental risk factors Cancer in the Community includes a case history of one Tannerstown resident who died of cancer Extensive and wrenching interviews with the patient s wife and his physician illuminate the underlying struggles concerning social class power inequalities and the control of knowledge In a passionate critique of health education and the constraints of medical professionalism Balslem traces the sources of conflict about the causes of and treatment for cancer to deeper oppositions concerning truth justice and meaning
