Two Approaches to Teaching College Writing Derek A. J. Soles,1988 Generation 1.5 Meets College Composition

Linda Harklau, Kay M. Losey, Meryl Siegal, 1999-05-01 An increasing number of students graduate from U S high schools and enter college while still in the process of learning English This group the 1 5 generation consisting of immigrants and U S residents born abroad as well as indigenous language minority groups is rapidly becoming a major constituency in college writing programs These students defy the existing categories in most college writing programs and in the research literature Experienced in American culture and schooling they have characteristics and needs distinct from the international students who have been the subject of most research and literature on ESL writing Furthermore in studies of mainstream college composition basic writing and diversity these students status as second language learners is usually left unaddressed or even misconstrued as underpreparation Nevertheless research and pedagogical writings have yet to take up the particular issues entailed in teaching composition to this student population The intent in this volume is to bridge this gap and to initiate a dialogue on the linguistic cultural and ethical issues that attend teaching college writing to U S educated linguistically diverse students This book is the first to address explicitly issues in the instruction of 1 5 generation college writers From urban New York City to midwestern land grant universities to the Pacific Rim experienced educators and researchers discuss a variety of contexts populations programs and perspectives The 12 chapters in this collection authored by prominent authorities in non native language writing are research based and conceptual providing a research based survey of who the students are their backgrounds and needs and how they are placed and instructed in a variety of settings The authors frame issues raise questions and provide portraits of language minority students and the classrooms and programs that serve them Together the pieces paint the landscape of college writing instruction for 1 5 generation students and explore the issues faced by ESL and college writing programs in providing appropriate writing instruction to second language learners arriving from U S high schools This book serves not only to articulate an issue and set an agenda for further research and discussion but also to suggest paths toward linguistic and cultural sensitivity in any writing classroom It is thought provoking reading for college administrators writing teachers and scholars and students of first and second language composition Preparing To Teach Writing James D. Williams, 2003-03 Preparing to Teach Writing Research Theory and Practice Third Edition is a comprehensive survey of theories research and methods associated with teaching composition successfully The primary goal is to provide practicing and prospective teachers with the knowledge they need to be effective teachers of writing and to prepare them for the many challenges they will face in the classroom Overall the third edition of Preparing to Teach Writing is clearer and more comprehensive than the previous editions It combines the best of the old with new information and features The discussions and references to foundational studies that helped define the field of rhetoric and composition are preserved in this edition Also preserved is most of the pedagogical apparatus that characterized the first two editions research and theory are examined with the aim of informing teaching New in the Third Edition a more thorough discussion of the history of rhetoric from its earliest days in ancient Greece to the first American composition courses offered at Harvard University in 1874 a major revision of the examination of major approaches to teaching writing current traditional rhetoric new rhetoric romantic rhetoric writing across the curriculum social theoretic rhetoric postmodern rhetoric and post postmodern rhetoric considering their strengths and weaknesses an extension of the discussion of strengths and weaknesses of major approaches to its logical conclusion Williams advocates an epistemic approach to writing instruction that demonstrably leads to improved writing instruction when implemented effectively a more detailed account of the phonics whole language debate that continues to puzzle many teachers and parents a new focus on why grammar instruction alone does not lead to better writing the difference between grammar and usage and how to teach grammar and usage effectively an expanded section on Chicano English that now includes a discussion of Spanglish more information on outcome objectives the Council of Writing Program Administrators statement of learning outcomes for first year composition courses has been included to help high school teachers better understand how to prepare high school students for college writing and to help those in graduate programs prepare for teaching assistantships in first year composition courses and a more comprehensive analysis of assessment that considers such important factors as the validity reliability predictability cost fairness and politics of assessment and the effects on teaching of state mandated testing and also provides an expanded section on portfolios

Teach College Writing Jason Bellipanni,2013-02-01 College Writing Skills John Langan,2010-01-27 College Writing Skills offers students a practical guide to becoming better writers From mastering the traditional five paragraph essay and its variations to learning about the finer points of grammar and punctuation College Writing Skills empowers students to take control of their writing and put it to work for them Now with the new online writing program Connect Writing and the soon to come Connect Langan an online interactive version of College Writing Skills this new eighth edition brings writing closer to students and helps to take them where they need to go Whether online or in class College Writing Skills offers students the tools to succeed Changing the Way We Teach Sally Barr Ebest,2005 Changing the Way We Teach Writing and Resistance in the Training of Teaching Assistants draws on eighteen case studies to illustrate the critical role writing plays in overcoming graduate student resistance to instruction facilitating change and developing professional identity Sally Barr Ebest argues that teaching assistants in English must be actively engaged in the theory and practice underlying composition pedagogy in order to better understand how to alter the way they teach and why such change is necessary In illustrating the potential for change when the paradigm shift in composition is applied to graduate education Ebest considers recent discussions of composition pedagogy post secondary teaching theories cognitive social cognitive and educational psychology and issues of gender voice and writing Stemming from research conducted over a five year period this volume explores how a cross section of teaching assistants responded to pedagogy as students and how their acceptance of pedagogy affected their performance as instructors Investigating reasons behind manifestations of resistance and necessary elements for overcoming it Ebest finds that engagement in composition strategies reflective writing journaling drafting and active learning and restoration of feelings of self efficacy are the primary factors that facilitate change

Concerned with gender as it relates to personal construct Changing the Way We Teach traces the influence of familial expectations and the effects of literacy experiences on students and draws correlations between feminist and composition pedagogy Ebest asserts that the phenomena contributing to the development of a strong unified voice in women self knowledge empathy positive role models and mentors should be essential elements of a constructivist graduate curriculum To understand composition pedagogy and to convince students of its values Ebest holds that educators must embrace it themselves and trace the effects through active research By providing graduate students with pedagogical sites for research and reflection faculty enable them to express their anger or fear study its sources and quite often write their way to a new understanding

Lazy Virtues Robert E. Cummings, 2009-03-27 Winner of the MLA s Mina P Shaughnessy Prize for an outstanding work in the fields of language culture literacy or literature with strong application to the teaching of English Focusing largely on the controversial website Wikipedia the author explores the challenges confronting teachers of college writing in the increasingly electronic and networked writing environments their students use every day Rather than praising or condemning that site for its role as an encyclopedia Cummings instead sees it as a site for online collaboration between writers and a way to garner audience for student writing Applying an understanding of Commons Based Peer Production theory as developed by Yochai Benkler this text is arranged around the following propositions Commons Based Peer Production is a novel economic phenomenon which informs our current teaching model and describes a method for making sense of future electronic developments College writers are motivated to do their best work when they write for an authentic audience external to the class Writing for a networked knowledge community invites students to participate in making knowledge rather than only consuming it A plan for integrating networked writing for an external audience helps students understand the transition from high school to college writing Allowing students to review and self select points of entry into electronic discourse fosters laziness or a new work dynamic where writers seek to better understand their own creativity in terms of a project s demands Lazy Virtues offers networked writing assignments to foster development of student writers by exposing them to the demands of professional audiences asking them to identify and assess their own creative impulses in terms of a project s needs and removing the writing teacher from the role of sole audience

Teaching Writing as Reflective Practice George Hillocks, 1995 George Hillocks Jr starts with the basic assumption that writing is at the heart of education and provides a metatheory to respond to this question What is involved in the effective teaching of writing at the secondary and college freshmen levels The author outlines a variety of theories explains the bridges between them and provides a coherent theoretical basis for thinking about the teaching of writing This concern with theory and research is offset by his attention to the practical matters of the classroom teachers are shown how to plan activities and sequences of activities that are appropriate for students who are within Vygotsky s zone of proximal development
