

A photograph of the exterior of a brick building. The building is constructed from light-colored, rectangular bricks with dark mortar. The bricks are laid in a traditional pattern, with some bricks protruding slightly to create a textured, three-dimensional effect. The building has several windows visible at the bottom, with dark frames. The sky is a pale, clear blue. The sign for 'The Washington Post' is mounted on the brick wall. The sign is made of dark green, three-dimensional letters in a classic, slightly stylized serif font. The letters are arranged in a single line, following the curve of the building's facade. The sign is mounted on the wall with small, light-colored brackets or supports. The overall scene is brightly lit, suggesting a clear day.
