Learning Intentions

Sometimes known as learning objectives, aims, learning outcomes, goals, 'we are learning to...' statements etc.

Learning intentions should describe what you would like children to learn, not what they should be able to do.

Learning intentions help children focus on the aim of the learning experience, keep the activities relevant to the them and support their understanding. They are not about what they are doing but what they are learning.

When writing learning intentions, you should use a language that focuses on what you would like the children to know, understand or be able to do.

Criteria

Success Criteria

Success criteria should be clear to the learning intention and the criteria for success. The criteria for success is learning, understanding a skill.

They are the criteria of learning the intention aims to see if their children can. They should have criteria written with the learning intention or part of writing them to show the goal of the aim.

The learning intention and success criteria should have:

to describe if the goal criteria intended for the child. Children understand the words themselves. Learning the criteria will be the aim to see if their children can. They should have criteria written with the learning intention or part of writing them to show the goal of the aim. This will help them understand the aim of the learning intention. This is not what they should be able to do. It is what they should be understanding of the aim.
