Theorizing Womens Work:

Theorizing Women and Leadership Julia Storberg-Walker, Paige Haber-Curran, 2017-01-03 This volume part of the Women and Leadership series explores women's leadership through diverse perspectives and contexts. It challenges traditional theorizing offering insights from various disciplines and epistemologies. The chapters highlight new ideas and research methods advancing leadership theory for women.

Women's Work in Britain and France Abigail Gregory, Jan Windebank, 2000-01-27 Women's Work in Britain and France is a ground breaking retheorization of what constitutes progress in gender relations. The book shows that French women although having more full time and continuous careers and greater social policy support retain as great a responsibility for unpaid domestic and caring work as their British counterparts. It replaces the conventional focus upon encouraging women's increased insertion into employment as the principal strategy for achieving progress in gender relations with a new focus on changing men's work patterns.

Theorizing Women's Work Pat Armstrong, Hugh Armstrong, 1990

Feminisms and Ruralities Barbara Pini, Berit Brandth, Jo Little, 2014-12-18 Feminist concern with difference has rarely extended to rurality even if it is now widely recognized that experiences of inequality depend on intersections of several identities in each individual life. This lack of concern may reflect the urban background of the majority of feminist academics or at least their urban positionality once in the academy. It may equivalently be that feminists have been influenced by stereotypes of rural women as traditional and reactionary and thus seen them as unlikely exponents of gender equality and an unfruitful focus for scholarly energies. Perhaps the problem is a broader one that is reflective of the much documented but still apparent unwillingness of many feminists to recognize and address difference in any of its manifestations. Regardless even with the recent interest in intersectionality which has necessarily renewed and reenergized debates in feminism about diversity and inclusion the question of how women are differently positioned because of their non metropolitan location has remained largely overlooked.

Theorizing Feminisms Elizabeth Hackett, 2006 Providing a survey of approaches to theoretical issues raised by the quest for gender justice this text is for use in interdisciplinary feminist theory courses. With an aim to provide an overview of feminist responses to including a critique of these questions its organising questions are What is sexist oppression? What must be done about it?

Feminist Theory Bell Hooks, 2000 Feminist Theory established bell hooks as one of international feminism's most challenging and influential voices. This edition includes a new preface by the author reflecting on the book's impact and the development of her ideas since it was first published. In this beautifully written and carefully argued work hooks maintains that mainstream feminism's reliance on white middle class and professional spokeswomen obscures the involvement leadership and centrality of women of colour and poor women in the movement for women's liberation. Hooks argues that feminism's goal of seeking credibility and acceptance on already existing ground rather than demanding the lasting and more fundamental transformation of society has shortchanged the movement. A sweeping examination of the core issues of sexual politics Feminist Theory argues that contemporary feminists must acknowledge the full complexity and diversity of women's experience to create a mass movement to end women's oppression

Angels of the Workplace Mercedes Steedman, 1997-01-01 In this study of the clothing industry in Canada historian Mercedes Steedman examines how the intricate weaving together of the meanings of class gender ethnicity family and workplace served often unconsciously to create a job ghetto for women Documentation Sur la Recherche Féministe, 2000
