People v. Kevorkian; Hobbins v. Attorney General, 447 MICH 436 (1994) ,1994 99759 Dialogue and the Interpretation of Illness Robert Pool,2020-08-19 The etiology of the Wimbun people in the Western Grassfields of Cameroon is described through an examination of the way in which the meanings of key concepts used to interpret and explain illness and other forms of misfortune are continually being produced and reproduced in the praxis of everyday communication During the course of numerous dialogues witchcraft a highly ambivalent force gradually emerges as the prime mover As destructive cannibals or respectable elders the witches are the ultimate cause of all significant illness misfortune and death and as diviners they are also the ultimate judges who apportion moral responsibility Even the ancestors and the traditional gods turn out to be fronts behind which the witches hide their activities The study is on three levels a medical anthropological exploration of explanations of illness and misfortune a detailed ethnography of traditional African cosmology and witchcraft and an examination of recent theoretical issues in anthropology such as the nature of ethnographic fieldwork and the possibility of dialogical or postmodern ethnography American Journal of Public Health ,1916 Death's Social and Material Meaning beyond the Human Jesse D.
