No Free Lunch William A. Dembski, 2007-02 Darwin's greatest accomplishment was to show how life might be explained as the result of natural selection But does Darwin's theory mean that life was unintended William A Dembski argues that it does not In this book Dembski extends his theory of intelligent design Building on his earlier work in The Design Inference Cambridge 1998 he defends that life must be the product of intelligent design Critics of Dembski's work have argued that evolutionary algorithms show that life can be explained apart from intelligence But by employing powerful recent results from the No Free Lunch Theory Dembski addresses and decisively refutes such claims As the leading proponent of intelligent design Dembski reveals a designer capable of originating the complexity and specificity found throughout the cosmos Scientists and theologians alike will find this book of interest as it brings the question of creation firmly into the realm of scientific debate Macroevolution Emanuele Serrelli, Nathalie Gontier, 2015-02-13 This book is divided in two parts the first of which shows how beyond paleontology and systematics macroevolutionary theories apply key insights from ecology and biogeography developmental biology biophysics molecular phylogenetics and even the sociocultural sciences to explain evolution in deep time In the second part the phenomenon of macroevolution is examined with the help of real life history case studies on the evolution of eukaryotic sex the formation of anatomical form and body plans extinction and speciation

Encyclopedia of Evolution Stanley A. Rice, 2009 Evolutionary science is not only one of the greatest breakthroughs of modern science but also one of the most controversial. Perhaps more than any other scientific area evolutionary science has caused us all to question what we are, where we came from and how we relate to the rest of the universe. Encyclopedia of Evolution contains more than 200 entries that span modern evolutionary science and the history of its development. This comprehensive volume clarifies many common misconceptions about evolution. For example many people have grown up being told that the fossil record does not demonstrate an evolutionary pattern and that there are many missing links. In fact most of these missing links have been found and their modern representatives are often still alive today. The biographical entries represent evolutionary scientists within the United States who have had and continue to have a major impact on the broad outline of evolutionary science. The biographies chosen reflect the viewpoints of scientists working within the United States. Five essays that explore interesting questions resulting from studies in evolutionary science are included as well. The appendix consists of a summary of Charles Darwin's Origin of Species which is widely considered to be the foundational work of evolutionary science and one of the most important books in human history. The five essays include: How much do genes control human behavior? What are the ghosts of evolution? Can an evolutionary scientist be religious? Why do humans die? Are humans alone in the universe?
