Absolute Music and the Construction of Meaning Daniel Chua, 1999-11-25 This book is born out of two contradictions first it explores the making of meaning in a musical form that was made to lose its meaning at the turn of the nineteenth century secondly it is a history of a music that claims to have no history absolute music The book therefore writes against that notion of absolute music which tends to be the paradigm for most musicological and analytical studies It is concerned not so much with what music is but with why and how meaning is constructed in instrumental music and what structures of knowledge need to be in place for such meaning to exist From the thought of Vincenzo Galilei to that of Theodore Adorno Daniel Chua suggests that instrumental music has always been a critical and negative force in modernity even with its nineteenth century apotheosis as absolute music

More-Than-Human Diasporas Joseph Pugliese, 2024-10-28 Pugliese's More Than Human Diasporas breaks the confines of existing scholarship in its vision of the way that more than human diasporic entities such as water trees clay stone and architectural styles have functioned as agents within the context of empire settler colonialism and a largely effaced history of Mediterranean enslavement a history that pre existed and then coincided with the Atlantic slave trade This book traces for example the diasporic travels of the eucalyptus from Indigenous Country to Joseph Banks botanical collection in London and then onto a grand English style garden in Southern Italy which was built on the historically effaced labour of enslaved people By deploying techniques of historical recovery this book brings to light otherwise buried histories thereby demonstrating the pivotal role of Mediterranean enslavement in the shaping of Italian society and culture This book develops a topological understanding of cultural history to account for the complex spatio temporal effects that connect seemingly disparate times spaces and more than human entities within networks of relationality In this innovative scholarly work more than human diasporic entities function as conceptual keys to histories which would otherwise remain hidden thereby revealing desubjugated knowledges which reconfigure anthropocentric histories and further the process of decolonisation This book will be of interest to readers interested in transnational and local histories of empire settler colonialism and slavery
