Virtual Zen:

Cyber Zen Gregory Price Grieve, 2016-12-08 Cyber Zen ethnographically explores Buddhist practices in the online virtual world of Second Life Does typing at a keyboard and moving avatars around the screen however count as real Buddhism If authentic practices must mimic the actual world then Second Life Buddhism does not In fact a critical investigation reveals that online Buddhist practices have at best only a family resemblance to canonical Asian traditions and owe much of their methods to the late twentieth century field of cybernetics If however they are judged existentially by how they enable users to respond to the suffering generated by living in a highly mediated consumer society then Second Life Buddhism consists of authentic spiritual practices Cyber Zen explores how Second Life Buddhist enthusiasts form communities identities locations and practices that are both products of and authentic responses to contemporary Network Consumer Society Gregory Price Grieve illustrates that to some extent all religion has always been virtual and gives a glimpse of possible future alternative forms of religion

Gestures Vilém Flusser,2014-06-01 Throughout his career the influential new media theorist Vil m Flusser kept the idea of gesture in mind that people express their being in the world through a sweeping range of movements He reconsiders familiar actions from speaking and painting to smoking and telephoning in terms of particular movement opening a surprising new perspective on the ways we share and preserve meaning A gesture may or may not be linked to specialized apparatus though its form crucially affects the person who makes it These essays published here as a collection in English for the first time were written over roughly a half century and reflect both an eclectic array of interests and a durable commitment to phenomenological thought Defining gesture as a movement of the body or of a tool attached to the body for which there is no satisfactory causal explanation Flusser moves around the topic from diverse points of view angles and distances at times he zooms in on a modest ordinary movement such as taking a photograph shaving or listening to music at others he pulls back to look at something as vast and varied as human making embracing everything from the fashioning of simple tools to mass manufacturing But whatever the gesture Flusser analyzes it as the expression of a particular form of consciousness that is as a particular relationship between the world and the one who gestures
