Woman Of Stone:

A Place More Void Paul Kingsbury, Anna J. Secor, 2021-02 A Place More Void takes its name from a scene in William Shakespeare's The Tragedy of Julius Caesar wherein an elderly soothsayer has a final chance to warn Caesar about the Ides of March. Worried that he won't be able to deliver his message because of the crowded alleyways the soothsayer devises a plan to find and intercept Caesar in a place more void. It is precisely such an elusive place that this volume makes space for by theorizing and empirically exploring the many yet widely neglected ways in which the void permeates geographical thinking. This collection presents geography's most in-depth and sustained engagements with the void to date demonstrating the extent to which related themes such as gaps, cracks, lacks, and emptiness perforate geography's fundamental concepts, practices, and passions. Arranged in four parts around the themes of Holes, Absences, Edges, and Voids, the contributions demonstrate the fecundity of the void for thinking across a wide range of phenomena from archives to alien abductions, caves to cryptids and vortexes to vanishing points. A Place More Void gathers established and emerging scholars who engage a wide range of geographical issues and who express themselves not only through archival, literary, and socio-scientific investigations but also through social and spatial theory, political manifesto, poetry, and performance art. The Ethnogeography of the Tewa Indians John Peabody Harrington, 1916 *Joseph H. Hearings, Reports and Prints of the Senate Committee on Public Works United States. Congress. Senate. Committee on Public Works, 1965 Reforming a Theology of Gender Daniel R. Patterson, 2022-08-11 Judith Butler and conservative Christian theology are often perceived to be antithetical on questions of gender. In Reforming a Theology of Gender they are shown to be strange bedfellows. By engaging in dialogue with Butler on her terms, desire, violence, and life, this book absorbs the heart of Butler's critique, revealing a righteous law and a seductive image in conservative theologies of gender. The law of Adam and Eve manifests in the unjust administration of guilt, grief, and death. By confronting this law, which in fact condemns all in their bodies, further reflection on Butler's thought leads to thinking about where one finds life in one's body of death. The seductive image of Adam and Eve is revealed to be a false hope and a site that induces slave morality or body works based righteousness. Butler's voice is strangely prophetic because it calls the church to offer hope and life by reorienting its gaze from the beautiful yet lifeless bodies of Adam and Eve to the bloodied and scarred risen body of Jesus Christ. Gender, in the end, is shown to be a vocation of becoming what one is not. Comity Glenn Knight, 2004-04 The misty fog drifts in swirls over around and through the wispy gray moss hanging low from the branches of the giant Live Oak Trees that dot the dark, eerie banks of the Bayou Teche. The full silver moon was riding low through the Live Oak tree branches in the dark, midnight sky. Everywhere you looked, the sky was pelted with bright stars. Further down the bank of the Bayou, shining through the ghostly trees, stands a big Plantation House, white, silent, and tall. Its white columns gleaming in the silvery moonlight. The
