Lloyd,2013-05-22 This reissue first published in 1982 is concerned with the rapid contemporary metropolitan development in the Third World at a time when manufacturing and public service sectors were expending at a terrific rate Nevertheless the phenomenal growth of the metropolitan cities brings with it an increase in social equalities such that two thirds of the population of these cities may be described as the urban poor This book concerns itself with the question Can we describe these urban poor as a proletariat or are such Western class terms totally inappropriate to the development of the Third World Peter Lloyd examines the nature of Western class terminology derived largely from Marx and Weber and assesses its utility in the analysis of Third World Urban society An assessment is also made of the political strength of the urban poor whether they are mobilising themselves or being mobilised from above This reissue will be relevant to courses on Development studies and the Third World it will also find a wider readership amongst social stratification and urban sociology      Third World in Soviet Perspective Thomas Perry Thorton,2015-12-08 The Third World in Soviet Perspective consists of translations of a representative selection of essays on numerous aspects of the developing areas by prominent and promising Soviet scholars They deal with Asia Africa and Latin America and range over such subjects as economic development class relationships political forces and agrarian reform with some discussion of more general problems of Soviet research Originally published in 1964 The Princeton Legacy Library uses the latest print on demand technology to again make available previously out of print books from the distinguished backlist of Princeton University Press These editions preserve the original texts of these important books while presenting them in durable paperback and hardcover editions The goal of the Princeton Legacy Library is to vastly increase access to the rich scholarly heritage found in the thousands of books published by Princeton University Press since its founding in 1905

ANZJS ,1983      The Soviet Union and Arab Nationalism, 1917-1966 Hashim S.H. Behbehani,2023-05-31 China s foreign policy in the Arab world is important because it reflects China s general foreign policy In this study first published in 1981 the author draws upon a wealth of previously unpublished and inaccessible material to analyse Chinese attitudes in three cases the two Arab liberation movements the Palestine Resistance Movement and the Popular Front for the Liberation of the Oman and the established and independent State of Kuwait Since the Arab liberation movements played a significant political role within their fields of operation it was necessary for China to decide whether these movements did actually fit in with Chinese foreign policy objectives Dr Behbehani s analysis of these two case studies provides the basis for a discussion of whether China s motives in supporting the liberation movements are theoretical or purely practical China s support for Kuwait s political internal continuity is related to the stability of the whole Gulf region The author analyses Chinese support for Kuwait and the surrounding conservative states on two main bases political and economic in the form of trade It is through these channels particularly the economic one that China has sought to establish itself in the Gulf and the Arabian peninsula
