Village Level Cassava Processing:

Village Level Cassava Processing Zoë Bainbridge, Karen Wellings, Andrew Westby, 1997-01 Cassava is an important staple food crop for many millions of people in tropical countries. However, the presence of cyanide-containing compounds (cyanogens) in the roots can lead to health problems. Cyanogens can be removed by efficient processing to produce safe food products. This distance learning package provides practical and detailed information on efficient, low-cost village-level processing methods. It includes one Tutor's Manual, which is intended for trainers of extension workers, and 10 Field Packs, each with eight flash cards highlighting the most important steps in the process for extension workers to use when conveying information to cassava farmers and processors. Farming Systems and Poverty John A. Dixon, David P. Gibbon, Aidan Gulliver, Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations, 2001-01-01 Small farmers produce much of the developing world's food. Yet they are generally much poorer than the rest of the population in these countries and are less food secure than even the urban poor. Furthermore, although the majority of the world's population will live in urban areas by 2030, farming populations will not be much smaller than they are today. For the foreseeable future, therefore, dealing with poverty and hunger in much of the world means confronting the problems that small farmers and their families face in their daily struggle for survival. Through an examination of a wide variety of farming systems across the developing world, this book (co-published with the World Bank) shows how the farming systems approach can be used to identify key local, regional, and international priorities for the reduction of hunger and poverty.

Transforming Agribusiness in Nigeria for Inclusive Recovery, Jobs Creation, and Poverty Reduction Elliot Mghenyi, Cora Dankers, Chidozie Anyiro, James Thurlow, 2022-02-08 Nigeria has for decades placed enormous emphasis on diversifying its economy beyond oil and into sectors such as agribusiness and manufacturing. Lack of progress on the diversification agenda could be blamed on weak implementation and misalignment of public spending, but it also reflects more profound underlying issues. For example, declarations that any particular sector should drive diversification without offering clarity on specific investment priorities and expected outcomes will not persuade budget holders to allocate development resources. The lack of clarity also deprives policy makers and practitioners of the information, inspiration, and conviction to develop and execute sector plans that could operationalize diversification. Transforming Agribusiness in Nigeria for Inclusive Recovery, Jobs Creation, and Poverty Reduction: Policy Reforms and Investment Priorities aims to provide that clarity by illustrating the potential of the agribusiness sector to accelerate inclusive growth, create jobs, and reduce poverty. Building on an early finding that this sector provides the best prospects for inclusive growth and more and better jobs, the book identifies the specific agricultural value chains with the highest potential to create jobs reduce poverty and improve nutrition outcomes The findings demonstrate however that the value chains with the most potential to pursue one policy objective are not necessarily as effective for other objectives clearly calling for selectivity of value chains depending on policy objectives The book also estimates the level of growth required to meet specific jobs targets and finds that the growth burden is lower when on farm and off farm segments of agribusiness grow in tandem and higher if either segment stagnates It concludes that a whole of agribusiness approach that emphasizes coordinated investments between on farm and off farm segments is needed to enable the sector to meet its potential in creating jobs and generating inclusive growth

Science, Technology and Innovation Policies for Inclusive Growth in Africa Reuben A. Alabi, Achim Gutowski, Nazar Mohamed Hassan, Tobias Knedlik, Samia Satti Osman Mohamed Nour, Karl Wohlmuth, 2018 The volume analyses how to make Science Technology and Innovation STI Policies relevant for inclusive growth strategies in Africa The base for a transformative STI policy is to link the STI policies to Africa's economic transformation policies In a first part the general issues of introducing effective STI policies are presented In a second part country case studies highlight the new approach Cases such as Sudan and Nigeria are analysed as these two countries have a long history of STI development because of different history size and structure they need to move in different directions towards a coherent STI policy for inclusive growth

Roots and Tubers for the 21st Century Gregory J. Scott, Mark W. Rosegrant, Claudia Ringler, 2000 Synthesizes a significant amount of data and information on roots and tubers in an effort to provide a clearer vision of their past present and future roles in the food systems of developing countries How the production and use of these commodities have changed and will continue to change over time are all the more important to understand because of the contribution they make to the diets and income generating activities of the rural and urban poor in Asia Africa and Latin America Provides a fuller understanding of the prospects of roots and tubers for food feed and other uses in developing countries
