Suddenly Sixty:

Suddenly Sixty Judith Viorst, 2001-02-21 Judith Viorst is known and loved by readers of all ages for children's books such as Alexander and the Terrible Horrible No Good Very Bad Day nonfiction titles including the bestseller Necessary Losses and her collections of humorous poetry in her decade series which make perfect gifts for birthdays Mother's Day graduation Christmas Chanukah or at any time of year Suddenly Sixty is a funny and touching book that speaks directly to the sixty-ish woman inviting her to laugh about sigh over and come to hopeful terms with the complex issues of this decade of life Among the poems in this charmingly illustrated collection are those exploring the joys and strains of children and grandchildren and the intimacy of old friends who've known each other so long We knew each other back when we were virgins There are poems that tip their hat to mortality wrestle with a husband's retirement He's coming with me when I shop at the supermarket So I won't have to shop alone I like alone and acknowledge the fact that at this stage of life we'd give up a night of wild rapture with Denzel Washington for a nice report on my next bone density test Offering plenty of laughs a few tears and cover to cover truths these are poems for everyone who would rather say never say die than enough is enough Every woman who has reached this decade will rueful and smiling find herself in the pages of this book But Not for Love

Edwin Shrake, 2000 This Texas Traditions Series reprint takes us back to the Lone Star State during the Cold War at the beginning of the 1960s The postwar generation is in a frenzy of high living and profligate spending Big Texas oil is still subsidized by a federal depletion allowance and cattle still account for much of the state's wealth But these longtime mainstays of Texas finance are giving way to transistors and computers A new millionaire class is growing up around business mergers and electronic technology The characters in Shrake's novel are caught in this brave new world in one way or another Some are the princes of prosperity others are victims of it This is a world of lobbyists merger lawyers small time politicians sons of oil money and the women who cheer them on or worry about their souls In the opening section of the novel we visit the Texas Gulf Coast and see the machinations of Sam Guthrie and Waddy Morris Jr as they attempt to take over a rival technology company Back in Dallas idealistic attorney Ben Carpenter moves to thwart the Guthrie Morris takeover Then we move to Fort Worth and attend the drunken party given in honor of Ben Carpenter's thirtieth birthday The party moved to Mexico on Cadmus Wilkins's bus where everyone has to confront his or her inner self And some are found wanting The several vignettes of the novel paint an accurate picture of Texas as it moves into the urban era and as its middle class began deserting the old verities and tasting what were once forbidden pleasures Shrake is a first rate stylist who knows how the upper half lives Gigolo Edna Ferber, 1922 The Art of Marriage Maintenance Sylvia R. Karasu, T. Byram

Karasu, 2005-06-09 Given the fact that 50% of marriages end in divorce you would think marriage wouldn't be so popular but getting married is one of the most popular of all life events In fact many new couples are willing to face considerable debt for the wedding ceremony alone It seems that many people spend more time on planning the wedding than on thinking about marriage and what it entails The Art of Marriage Maintenance is about marital life after the wedding It is about psychological and biological difficulties between men and women that make marriage so challenging It is about why passion is in danger of fading within marriage how hormones exacerbate behavior and how the brain confounds us It is about how pregnancy and having young children and adolescents often catapult a marriage to its breaking point and how the stresses of mid life contribute to marital discord It is in effect how to ensure a happy enduring marriage It is the art of marriage maintenance character Xjirimu refuses to discipline one of her sons who so brutally abuses his wife that she dies while fleeing the home. The dead woman's family exacts revenge that inspires Xjirimu to lead her ruined family to a new home in a wild, dangerous land where a wolf kills an infant left unattended as Xjirimu weeds nearby with her daughters. Xjirimu is to repeat history. Her sole surviving son brings a wife Zhualimaxji into a home ruled by Xjirimu and her three daughters, each of whom have undergone a ritual that allows them to see men and have children while remaining unmarried. It is not the son this time who abuses his wife but Xjirimu and the sisters. The wife flees. Where she goes and her ensuing life is vividly described by the writers who visited her in 2004. The runaway wife describes how much she missed her homeland to which she never returned. I climbed the mountain behind my village and gazed at my ancestral home. I wanted to fly there. She died a month after the authors' visit. Limusishiden and Jugui have accomplished something astonishing for they have taken us into a culture that only locals could write about so incisively with such authority and compassion and so unapologetically. In so doing they have created an enduring record of this vanishing culture.

Lighter as We Go Mindy Greenstein, Jimmie C. Holland, 2015

The fears of aging have been one long cascading domino effect through the years: twenty-year-olds dread thirty, forty-year-olds fear fifty, sixty, seventy, and so it goes. And there is something to worry about, though it isn't what you'd expect: research shows that having a bad attitude toward aging when we're young is associated with poorer health when we're older. These worries tend to peak in midlife, but in Lighter as We Go, Mindy Greenstein and Jimmie Holland show us that contrary to common wisdom, our sense of well-being actually increases with our age, often even in the presence of illness or disability. For the first time, Greenstein and Holland, on a joint venture between an 85-year-old and a fifty-year-old, explore positive psychology concepts of character strengths and virtues to unveil how and why, through the course of a lifetime, we learn who we are as we go. Drawing from the authors' own personal intergenerational friendship as well as a broad array of research from many different areas, including social psychology, anthropology, neuroscience, humanities, psychiatry, and gerontology, Lighter as We Go introduces compassion, justice, community, and culture to help calm our cascading fears of aging.
