Un Poco Low Coup:

Un Poco Low Coups Amiri Baraka, 2004 Poetry African American In this latest chapbook from one of the 20th century's most vital and revolutionary authors poems are set visually on canvas like pages blurring the line between visual and poetic art Whether it's politics music literature or the origins of language there is always a historical and time place condition reference that will always try to explain why I was saying both how and for what Amiri Baraka Traveling Texts and the Work of Afro-Japanese Cultural Production William H. Bridges IV, Nina Cornyetz, 2015-06-24 Traveling Texts and the Work of Afro Japanese Cultural Production analyzes the complex conversations taking place in texts of all sorts traveling between Africans African Diasporas and Japanese across disciplinary geographic racial ethnic linguistic and cultural borders Be it focused on the make up of the blackface ganguro or the haiku of Richard Wright Rastafari communities in Japan or the black enka singer Jero the volume turns its attention away from questions of representation to ones concerning the generative aspects of transcultural production The contributors are interested primarily in texts in motion the contradictory motion within texts the traveling of texts and the action that such kinetic energy inspires in readers viewers listeners and travelers As our texts travel and travail the originary nodal points that anchor them to set significations loosen and are transformed the essays trace how in the process of traveling the bodies and subjectivities of those working to reimagine the texts in new sites moderate accommodate and transfigure both the texts and themselves Ethnic Literatures and Transnationalism Aparajita Nanda, 2014-11-13 As new comparative perspectives on race and ethnicity open up scholars are identifying and exploring fresh topics and questions in an effort to reconceptualize ethnic studies and draw attention to nation based approaches that may have previously been ignored This volume by recognizing the complexity of cultural production in both its diasporic and national contexts seeks a nuanced critical approach in order to look ahead to the future of transnational literary studies The majority of the chapters written by literary and ethnic studies scholars analyze ethnic literatures of the United States which given the nation's history of slavery and immigration form an integral part of mainstream American literature today While the primary focus is literary the chapters analyze their specific topics from perspectives drawn from several disciplines including cultural studies and history This book is an exciting and insightful resource for scholars with interests in transnationalism American literature and ethnic studies Playing in the Shadows William H. Bridges, 2020-02-10 Playing in the Shadows considers the literature engendered by postwar Japanese authors robust cultural exchanges with African Americans and African American literature The Allied Occupation brought an influx of African American soldiers and culture to Japan which catalyzed the writing of black characters into postwar Japanese literature This same influx fostered the creation of organizations such as the Kokujin kenkyu no kai The Japanese Association for Negro Studies and literary endeavors such as the Kokujin bungaku zenshu The Complete Anthology of Black Literature This rich milieu sparked Japanese authors Nakagami Kenji and e Kenzaburō are two notable examples interest in reading interpreting critiquing and ultimately incorporating the tropes and techniques of African American literature and jazz performance into their own literary works Such incorporation leads to literary works that are black not by virtue of their representations of black characters but due to their investment in the possibility of technically and intertextually black Japanese literature Will Bridges argues that these fictions of race provide visions of the way that postwar Japanese authors reimagine the ascription of race to bodies be they bodies of literature the body politic or the human body itself

Tales of the Out & the Gone Amiri Baraka,2007 The first section of the book War Stories offers six stories enmeshed in the volatile politics of the 1970s and 1980s The second section Tales of the Out the Gone reveals Amiri Baraka s increasing literary adventurousness combining an unpredictable language play with a passion for abstraction and psychological exploration
