Zanzibar Under Colonial Rule Abdul Sheriff, Ed Ferguson, 1991 Zanzibar stands at the centre of the Indian Ocean system's involvement in the history of Eastern Africa. The first part of the book shows the transition of Zanzibar from the commercial economy of the nineteenth century to the colonial economy of the twentieth century. In the second part, the authors analyse social classes and their role in the period culminating in the insurrection of 1964. North America: Ohio U Press Tanzania Historical Association of Tanzania.

Zanzibar Under Colonial Rule Abdul Sheriff, Ed Ferguson, 1991-01-01 Zanzibar stands at the center of the Indian Ocean system's involvement in the history of Eastern Africa. This book follows on from the period covered in Abdul Sheriff's acclaimed Slaves, Spices and Ivory in Zanzibar. The first part of the book shows the transition of Zanzibar from the commercial economy of the nineteenth century to the colonial economy of the twentieth century. The authors begin with the abolition of the slave trade in 1873 that started the process of transformation. They show the transition from slavery to colonial free labor, the creation of the capitalist economy and the resulting social contradictions. They take the history up to formal independence in 1963 with a postscript on the 1964 insurrection. In the second part, the authors analyze social classes. The landlords and the merchants were dominant in the commercial empire of the nineteenth century and had difficulties in adjusting to the colonial condition. At the same time, the development of capitalist farmers and a fully proletarianized working class was hindered. The conservative administration could not resolve the contradictions of colonial capitalism and the formation of a united nationalist movement was hampered. This period culminated in the insurrection of 1964 but the revolution could not be consummated without mature revolutionary classes.

Language and Collective Mobilization Nadra O. Hashim, 2009-06-16 Language and Collective Mobilization analyzes the origins of communal conflict in five phases of Zanzibar's modern history. The first phase examines the implementation of British colonial control focusing on the conversion of Zanzibar's subsistence farming economy to a cash crop plantation complex. This first phase of colonial rule disrupted a variety of indigenous political and social institutions which traditionally promoted peace and stability. During subsequent phases of colonial rule the British government devised political, economic and educational policies that promoted elite Arab rule at the expense of the majority Swahili speaking population. Colonial authorities rendered illegal any attempts by Swahilis to organize political resistance, a rule which exacerbated anti Arab animosity. Colonial rule ended in 1964 when Swahili speaking Zanzibaris led a violent revolution against English command and Arab control. Having forced a variety of wealthy Arab and Indian communities off the island, Swahili revolutionaries allowed a small number of Indian merchants and a few Shirazi farmers to remain. Less than twenty years after the revolution in this fifth phase of Zanzibar's political history, partisan conflict between the Shirazi and Swahili populations threatens to unleash a new rash of violence. The social climate mirrors the first phase of British rule where economic stratification deepens and political tensions grow. The analysis offered in this book will find an audience in students, scholars, journalists and policymakers interested in understanding so called ethnic conflict in Africa.

Slavery and Emancipation in Islamic East Africa Elisabeth McMahon, 2013-04-30. Examining the process of abolition on the island of Pemba off the East African coast in the late nineteenth and early twentieth centuries, this book demonstrates the links between emancipation and the redefinition of honour among all classes of people on the island. By examining the social vulnerability of ex slaves and the former slave owning elite caused by the abolition order of 1897, this study argues that moments of resistance on Pemba reflected an effort to mitigate vulnerability rather than resist the hegemonic power of elites or the colonial state. As the meaning of the Swahili word heshima shifted from honour to respectability, individuals' reputations came under scrutiny and the Islamic kadhi and colonial courts became an integral location for interrogating reputations in the community. This study illustrates the ways in which former slaves used piety, reputation, gossip, education, kinship and witchcraft to negotiate the gap between emancipation and local notions of belonging.

Physical Space and Spatiality in Muslim Societies Mahbub Rashid, 2021-08-10. Mahbub Rashid embarks on a fascinating journey through urban space in all of its physical and social aspects using the theories of Foucault, Bourdieu, Lefebvre and others to explore how consumer capitalism, colonialism and power disparity consciously shape cities. Using two Muslim cities as case studies, Algiers (Ottoman, French) and Zanzibar (Ottoman, British), Rashid shows how Western perceptions can only view Muslim cities through the lens of colonization, a lens that distorts both physical and social space. Is it possible, he asks, to find a useable urban past in a timeline broken by colonization? He concludes that political economy may be less relevant in premodern cities; that local variation is central to the understanding of power; that cities engage more actively in social reproduction than in production; that the manipulation of space is the exercise of power; that all urban space is a conscious construct and is therefore not inevitable.

and that consumer capitalism is taking over everyday life Ultimately we reconstruct a present from a fragmented past through local struggles against the homogenizing power of abstract space

Slaves, Spices and Ivory in Zanzibar Abdul Sheriff, 1987-09-30 The rise of Zanzibar was based on two major economic transformations Firstly slaves became used for producing cloves and grains for export Previously the slaves themselves were exported Secondly there was an increased international demand for luxuries such as ivory At the same time the price of imported manufactured goods was falling Zanzibar took advantage of its strategic position to trade as far as the Great Lakes However this very economic success increasingly subordinated Zanzibar to Britain with its anti slavery crusade and its control over the Indian merchant class Professor Sheriff analyses the early stages of the underdevelopment of East Africa and provides a corrective to the dominance of political and diplomatic factors in the history of the area

The Impact of Electricity Tanja Winther, 2008-09-01 How does everyday life change when electricity becomes available to a group of people for the first time Why do some groups tend to embrace this icon of development while other groups actively fight against it This book examines the effects of electricity's arrival in an African rural community Based on ethnographic fieldwork in Zanzibar at different points in time the author provides a compelling account of the social implications in question The rhythm of life changes and life is speeding up Sexuality and marriage patterns are affected And a range of social relations e.g between generations and genders as well as relations between human beings and spirits become modified Despite men and women's general appreciation of the new services electricity provides new dilemmas emerge By using electricity as a guide through the social landscape the particularities of social and cultural life in this region emerge Simultaneously the book invites readers to understand the ways that electricity affects and becomes implicated in our everyday life
