

A diagram illustrating the formation of sun dogs. A central sun is shown in a blue sky. Two white, hexagonal ice crystals are positioned in the sky, one to the left and one to the right of the sun. A yellow line representing sunlight originates from the sun and passes through the right ice crystal. A red line representing sunlight originates from the sun and passes through the left ice crystal. An orange line representing sunlight originates from the sun and passes through the right ice crystal, bending downwards to reach a white silhouette of a person's head in the foreground. A red line representing sunlight originates from the sun and passes through the left ice crystal, bending downwards to reach the person's head. The background shows a dark, hilly landscape under a blue sky. Three text boxes with arrows pointing to the relevant parts of the diagram explain the process: a green box for refraction, a brown box for the 22-degree bend, and a red box for the resulting optical illusion.
