The Conspiracy Files:

The Conspiracy Files Joseph Hurts, The modern national security state operates through vast systems of classification compartmentalization and information control that were largely constructed during and after World War II fundamentally altering the relationship between democratic governments and their citizens What began as necessary wartime measures to protect military operations has evolved into permanent bureaucratic structures that classify millions of documents annually while creating parallel systems of governance that operate largely outside public scrutiny or democratic accountability The classification system that governs government secrecy was formalized through executive orders rather than congressional legislation giving presidents and executive agencies broad authority to determine what information should be withheld from public view This system has expanded far beyond military secrets to encompass diplomatic communications economic intelligence law enforcement investigations and scientific research creating categories of information that may remain classified for decades without clear justification related to national security The concept of compartmentalization divides sensitive information into discrete segments that are shared only with individuals who have specific operational needs to know particular details creating information silos that prevent most government employees from understanding the broader scope or implications of classified programs This compartmentalization can hide the full extent of government activities even from senior officials while making it difficult for oversight bodies to evaluate the legality effectiveness or appropriateness of classified operations

The Conspiracy Files Martin Harry Greenberg, Scott H. Urban, 1998 Clandestine government agencies black ops groups paramilitary organizations Masonic lodges fringe cults infiltrators from alien lands and perhaps alien dimensions and their conspiracies and cover ups are the subjects of the fascinating stories included in this volume Contributors include Doug Clegg Tom Monteleone Ed Gorman Christopher Golden Norman Partridge and Yvonne Navarro

The Mysterious Collapse of World Trade Center 7 David Ray Griffin, 2012-12-30 At 5 20 in the afternoon on 9 11 Building 7 of the World Trade Center collapsed even though it had not been struck by a plane and had fires on only a few floors The reason for its collapse was considered a mystery In August 2008 NIST the National Institute of Standards and Technology issued its report on WTC 7 declaring that the reason for the collapse of World Trade Center 7 is no longer a mystery and that science is really behind what we have said Showing that neither of these claims is true David Ray Griffin demonstrates that NIST is guilty of the most serious types of scientific fraud fabricating falsifying and ignoring evidence He also shows that NIST's report left intact the central mystery How could a building damaged by fire not explosives have come down in free fall
