The Genesis Chronicles Glen McBride,2001-05-01 The fifteen stages from Ramepithecus to Homo sapiens sapiens the story of human evolution Sensing rather than seeing the attack Yellowtip swung to face Beta still grasping the branch At full pelt Beta fell directly onto the straight point of the stick With little more than a grunt he wrenched himself back then fell on the ground twitching and was still Yellowtip drew himself erect stick in hand He had not deliberately challenged Beta but by destroying him he should replace him in the hierarchy though young and inexperienced Tensely he stared down at each male in turn inviting challenge One by one they struggled to return his gaze then dropped their eyes and turned aside This was triumph it felt glorious Yellowtip s accidental discovery of weaponry provides the basis for the first chronicle in Glenorchy McBride s personal take on the history of evolution Like many great discoveries over the history of time some of the fifteen steps on the long road from Ramepithecus to Homo sapiens sapiens were serendipitous and some the result of trial and error but all are described with wit and compassion in this entertaining and thought provoking book We squat with Fireboy as he anxiously nurtures the first flickering embers and run with Ton and his beloved wolf cub We sit at Roo s feet as she shares her dreams of the first totem spirit we meet the first artists the first traders the first herders and finally the Sower of seeds the visionary who led her people towards our own modern agriculture Drawing on his long and distinguished career as an internationally recognised ethologist Glenorchy McBride illustrates each of his chronicles with detailed scientific background material The Genesis Chronicles present a picture of the history of evolution a picture which prompts McBride to ask whether our evolution has fitted us for the world we have created or whether we are irredeemably flawed by our ancestral experiences

The Medieval Chronicle 12,2019-03-19

Alongside annals chronicles were the main genre of historical writing in the Middle Ages Their significance as sources for the study of medieval history and culture is today widely recognised not only by historians but also by students of medieval literature and linguistics and by art historians The series The Medieval Chronicle aims to provide a representative survey of the on going research in the field of chronicle studies illustrated by examples from specific chronicles from a wide variety of countries periods and cultural backgrounds There are several reasons why the chronicle is particularly suited as the topic of a yearbook In the first place there is its ubiquity all over Europe and throughout the Middle Ages chronicles were written both in Latin and in the vernacular and not only in Europe but also in the countries neighbouring on it like those of the Arabic world Secondly all chronicles raise such questions as by whom for whom or for what purpose were they written how do they reconstruct the past what determined the choice of verse or prose or what kind of literary influences are discernable in them Finally many chronicles have been beautifully illuminated and the relation between text and image leads to a wholly different set of questions The Medieval Chronicle is published in cooperation with the Medieval Chronicle Society medievalchronicle.org

The Sons of Jacob and the Sons of Herakles Andrew Tobolowsky,2017-10-18

In this study Andrew Tobolowsky offers a new approach to biblical descriptions of the tribes of Israel as the sons of Jacob He reveals how shifting assumptions about early Israelite history and the absence of references to Jacob in most accounts of the tribes make it unlikely that this understanding was part of early tribal discourse Instead drawing on extensive similarities between the role

Jacob's children plays in the biblical narrative and the role that shared descent from figures such as Hellen and Herakles play in the construction of ancient Greek histories Andrew Tobolowsky concludes that the tribal genealogical concept was first developed in the late Persian period as a tool for the production of a newly integrated newly coherent account of a shared ethnic past the first continuous biblical vision of Israelite history from Adam to the fall of Jerusalem and beyond I.
