The Creative Mind An Introduction To Metaphysics:

The Creative Mind Henri Bergson, Mabelle L. Andison, 2010-06-17 The final published book by Nobel Prize winning author and philosopher Henri Bergson 1859 1941 La pens e et le mouvant translated here as The Creative Mind is a masterly autobiography of his philosophical method Through essays and lectures written between 1903 and 1923 Bergson retraces how and why he became a philosopher and crafts a fascinating critique of philosophy itself Until it leaves its false paths he demonstrates philosophy will remain only a wordy dialectic that surmounts false problems With masterful skill and intensity Bergson shows that metaphysics and science must be rooted in experience for philosophy to become a genuine search for truth And in the quest for unanswered questions the spiritual dimension of human life and the importance of intuition must be emphasized A source of inspiration for physicists as well as philosophers Bergson s introduction to metaphysics reveals a philosophy that is always on the move blending man s spiritual drive with his mastery of the material world

The Creative Mind Henri Bergson, 2019 The Creative Mind Henri Bergson, 1971 This collection comprises first of all two introductory essays written especially for it and consequently heretofore unpublished They make up a third of the volume The rest are articles or lectures mostly out of print which appeared in France or in other countries Taken as a whole they date from the period between 1903 and 1923 They bear mainly upon the method I believe should be recommended to the philosopher To go back to the origin of this method to trace the direction it impresses upon research is the particular object of the two essays which make up the introduction

Intuition Hope K. Fitz, 2000-12-31 As the title indicates in this book the overall position which has been presented is that intuition is a natural and necessary part of the mind s life i e the functioning of the human mind in the process of acquiring knowledge and understanding However even though intuition is natural and necessary for human knowledge and understanding it is not viewed with favour by many thinkers around the world The reason is that in general it has been taken to be a nondiscursive form or independent way of gaining knowledge Yet as most rigorous thinkers hold knowledge is by its very nature discursive Given the foregoing view of intuition as it is generally understood the challenge which has been set before the author in writing this book was to legitimate the belief in and use of intuition by presenting an explanation as to its nature and uses which is not at odds with what rigorous thinkers take knowledge to be The core idea of that has been taken in intuition to be in the writings of Sarvepalli RAdhakrishnan Briefly intuition so viewed is taken to be an integral process of the mind which culminates in an act of insight The process involves reasoning but the insight in which the process culminates does not Intuition is not a form of knowledge rather it is only one means to knowledge which together with reason sense experience and revelation in the Heideggerian sense make possible knowledge and understanding

An Introduction to Metaphysics Henri Bergson, 1965 Woolf, Bergson and the Sciences Candice Kent, 2026-02-25 Woolf

Bergson and the Sciences explores the use of animals in Woolf's novels alongside the writing of philosopher Henri Bergson and relevant science and nature writers. Since Woolf and Bergson are both deeply engaged with the science of their time, they are read in the context of writings by a wide range of scientists including Charles Darwin, his protégé George Romanes, evolutionary theory's vociferous champion T. H. Huxley, Huxley's students, comparative psychologist Conwy Lloyd Morgan, and novelist H. G. Wells, social scientists who drew on evolutionary theory such as William McDougall and Wilfred Trotter, and physiologists Julian Huxley and J. B. S. Haldane, both accomplished popularisers. The book also juxtaposes Woolf with contemporary literary writers to assess degrees of alignment and divergence, with the further aim of gaining insights into the complexity of responses to animal issues. To this purpose, it includes discussions on writings by, among others, H. G. Wells, Wilfred Owen, Leonard Woolf, Naomi Mitchison, David Garnett, Mary Butts, and John Buchan. This monograph is for scholars and postgraduate students interested in and researching Virginia Woolf, Henri Bergson, modernism, science, and literature, and animal studies.

Morality in Evolution Idella J. Gallagher, 2012-12-06. Les Deux Sources de la Morale et de la Religion is not a book to leave one indifferent. Those who are persuaded by its argument or inspired by its message are prone to manifest the same enthusiasm as Georges Cattani, who praised it as one of the greatest and wisest books conceived by philosophers. Even those who take exception to the doctrine it expounds are impelled to acknowledge its significance. It was in his critique of Les Deux Sources that Jacques Maritain was moved to call the philosophy of Henri Bergson one of the most daring and profound of our time. When many years ago I opened Les Deux Sources for the first time, I turned out of curiosity to the last page and beheld these words: l'univers est une machine à faire des dieux. Bergson was an evolutionist, but surely this was no ordinary evolutionist speaking. I thought: What must be the moral philosophy of a man who would write these words? When much later I undertook the present study, it was this same question which concerned me.

In this second edition of The Cinema of Richard Linklater, Rob Stone shows how Linklater's latest films have redefined our understanding of his work, offering critical analysis of films including Before Midnight (2013) and Everybody Wants Some (2016), as well as new interviews with Linklater and a chapter on Boyhood (2014).

From Philosophy to Economics: Early Essays Neil Shandalow, 2012-12-29. Diverse, introductory, and interesting essays on Descartes, Schopenhauer, Marx, Bergson, Adam Smith, David Ricardo, Thomas Kuhn, and Hecksher Ohlin. Topics include certainty, conditions for knowledge, empirical and a priori knowledge, ego, duration, consciousness, free will, alienation, naturalism, scientific revolutions, profits, rents, classical and marginalist economics, foreign trade theory. These essays were written when I was a graduate student in philosophy in the late 1960s at New York University, and then a decade later as a graduate student in economics at the Graduate Faculty, The New School for Social Research. After reading and digesting these essays, the reader will be able to converse with philosophers and economists on these topics at dinner parties and other social gatherings, as long as the reader keeps the conversation on a superficial level.

Creative Mind Introduction to Metaphysics is a 1903 essay by Henri Bergson that deals with the nature of reality According to Bergson reality is process rather than a series of states He argues that it is essentially fluid and that it may not be understood entirely through reductionistic analysis instead requiring intuition to be seen and grasped in its entirety Henri Louis Bergson 1859 1941 was a French Jewish philosopher He had a significant influence on the tradition of continental philosophy during the first half of the twentieth century until World War II and is famous for his idea that immediate experience and intuition are more important than abstract rationalism and science for understanding the nature of reality In 1927 Bergson received The Nobel Prize in Literature This classic work is being republished now in a new edition complete with a Chapter From Bergson And His Philosophy by J Alexander Gunn The Creative Mind Henri Bergson,2013-10 This is a new release of the original 1946 edition The Incarnate Subject Maurice Merleau-Ponty,2001 No Marketing Blurb Subject Guide to Books in Print ,1993 The History of Continental Philosophy Alan D.
