Transforming Charity Ryan Streeter, 2001 Charities are becoming market oriented faith based organizations are engaging in civic initiatives social innovators are turning charitable gifts into investments and the social sector is growing more complex as local communities find new ways to address the needs of those left behind This book examines the developing trend to assist those in need in ways that deliver real results by changing lives and changing how charity is practiced Streeter provides concrete examples and draws connections to the larger movement in America to strengthen the institutions of civil society

Charity and Poverty in Advanced Welfare States Cameron Parsell, Andrew Clarke, Francisco Perales, 2021-09-20 This book conceptualises the role of charity to people who are poor in wealthy countries and outlines a set of practical and conceptual ideas for how it could be reimagined Despite professionalised welfare states and strong economies in many advanced industrialised nations charity continues to play a major role in the lives of people who are poor Extending what we know about how neoliberalism drives a decayed welfare state that outsources welfare provisioning to charities and community initiatives this book asks how can we understand and conceptualise society's willingness to engage in charitable acts towards the poor and how can charity be reimagined to contribute to justice in an unjust society Through interrogating multiple data sources including government datasets survey datasets media analyses and ethnographic data this book shows that charity is not well suited to addressing the material dimension of poverty It argues the need for a revised model of charity with the capacity to contribute to social solidarity that bridges social divisions and is inclusive of the poor Presenting a model for reimagining charity which enables reciprocity and active contributions from recipients and providers this book shows how power imbalances flowing from the unidirectional provision of charity can be reduced allowing opportunities for reciprocal care that foster both well being and solidarity This book will be of interest to all scholars and students of social policy public policy social welfare sociology and social work

A Monument to Saint Augustine Martin Cyril D'Arcy,1930      Transforming Rural Life Sally Ann McMurry,1995 One of the many changes that transformed nineteenth century agrarian life was the shift in the dairy industry from home to factory butter and cheesemaking In the early nineteenth century virtually all such work took place on the family farm But after about 1860 production began to move from farms to local crossroads factories In Transforming Rural Life Sally McMurry takes a new look at the underlying causes of this development and its implications for the dairying families who were the mainstays of northeastern agriculture Unlike previous books which cast this transformation primarily in economic terms McMurry s work emphasizes the role of social systems cultural values material culture and family dynamics She argues that a key factor in the change was simply the resistance of women to the burden of home cheesemaking many households produced thousands of pounds every season When the technology and economic conditions permitted the transition to factory production took place quickly not because farm families made more money but because taking the milk to factories helped resolve domestic tensions As a result patterns of life began to change freeing women for new tasks encouraging increased reliance on the market economy and new cash crops and emphasizing wage work which in turn affected the reorganization of the domestic economy Sally A McMurry teaches history at the Pennsylvania State University She is the author of Families and Farmhouses in Nineteenth Century America Vernacular Design and Social Change NCEA Bulletin National Catholic Educational Association,1910 Woman's Work in Municipalities Mary Ritter Beard,1915 Charities and the Commons ,1906 Cana, Or, Little Chapters on Courtship, Marriage, Home Charles Alfred Martin,1911
