Bergin, 1993-01-01 The successful implementation of CASE technology requires a long term and comprehensive commitment to the pursuit of raising the quality of software design and ultimately improving the information management within the organization Computer Aided Software Engineering Issues and Trends for the 1990s and Beyond covers all aspects of preparing an organization for the successful implementation of a CASE program Actual case studies empirical research and theoretical suppositions are used to assess how CASE is being used today and to predict future directions Managing Information Resources in the 1990s Information Resources Management Association. maintenance Modifications today are made at specification level regenerating the software components testing and integrating them with the system Eventually software maintenance has to manage the evolution and evolutionary characteristics of software systems Software professionals have to maintain not only the software but the momentum of change in systems and software In this study we observe various issues tools and techniques and the emerging trends in software technology with particular reference to maintenance We are not searching for specific solutions We are identifying issues and finding ways to manage them live with them and control their negative impact
