

Recovery Writing Prompts

- 1) What are your top three reasons for wanting to recover?
- 2) Imagine your ideal life one year from now. What would that look like? Be as detailed as possible.
- 3) Write a break-up letter to your drug of choice. Share it in a blog comment or with a friend or a sponsor if you'd like.
- 4) What do you fear most about recovering? What about your previous life is most difficult to leave behind? How will your new life be better? Be as detailed as you can.
- 5) What are 10 things you're most grateful for today?
- 6) How do you imagine recovery will change your life? What new opportunities will your recovery bring you?
- 7) How do you hope to grow through your recovery? In what ways do you hope to change? How do you feel about the changes that are happening now?

If you'd like, share your writings on our blog or with a friend or a sponsor.

Writing To Recovery:

Write to Restore Jen Cross, 2020-02 Using Your Words to Heal A holistic approach to recovering from trauma Creative writing is increasingly becoming a go to method for trauma recovery There is great power in the written word and even more so when those words are our own Journaling provides a cathartic release of emotions because it allows us to not only process past experiences but also reflect on how we re feeling in the present moment In this way writing is one of the most easily accessible self care practices Give voice to what has been silenced Healing from trauma can be a slow and painful process especially for sexual trauma survivors who are often shamed into keeping their experience to themselves This companion journal to Jen Cross s book Writing Ourselves Whole is a space to put the pain on a page and in doing so release the hold it has on us and restore our bodies and minds Creativity as a tool for change Trauma and violence leave a distinct mark on our lives one that is not easily erased Writing on our own or with a community or group can be an extremely transformative process for creating change both within ourselves and socially It encourages discussions about mental and emotional health that lead to finding more approaches to healing Jen Cross has worked with sexual trauma survivors for over fifteen years and founded an organization that is devoted to creating spaces for survivors to write and talk about their experiences In this self help journal you will find A 60 day guided journey to healing from your experience Sixteen writing exercises that gently prompt writers deeper into their experiences and into renewal Follow up readings additional exercises and suggested uses for your writing If you ve worked through books such as Start Where You Are Healing the Wounded Heart and Present Not Perfect then Our Words Restore Us will provide further support and restoration for your healing process The Disaster Recovery Handbook Michael Wallace, Larry Webber, 2011 No organization is safe without a disaster recovery plan in place Expanded and up to date this is the ultimate resource [Digest of the Cases Reported in Annotated Cases \(American and English\) 21 Ann.
