The Tangible in Music Marko Aho, 2016-05-26 In the age of digital music it seems striking that so many of us still want to produce music concretely with our bodies through the movement of our limbs lungs and fingers in contact with those materials and objects which are capable of producing sounds The huge sales figures of musical instruments in the global market and the amount of time and effort people of all ages invest in mastering the tools of music make it clear that playing musical instruments is an important phenomenon in human life By combining the findings made in music psychology and performative ethnomusicology Marko Aho shows how playing a musical instrument and the pleasure musicians get from it emerges from an intimate dialogue between the personally felt body and the sounding instrument An introduction to the general aspects of the tactile resources of musical instruments musical style and the musician is followed by an analysis of the learning process of the regional kantele style of the Perho river valley in Finnish Central Ostrobothnia

Educational Encounters: Nordic Studies in Early Childhood Didactics Niklas Pramling, Ingrid Pramling Samuelsson, 2011-08-10 Qualitative analyses of young children s learning in natural settings are rare so this new book will make educators sit up and pay attention It lays out a Nordic or continental European teaching and learning paradigm whose didactic framework is distinct from the Anglo American system This analysis which features contributions and case studies from researchers in a range of subjects is built on principles such as the learner s perspective establishing sufficient intersubjectivity pointing out and informing experience linguistically After clarifying some historical background the book discusses the contemporary emphasis in early childhood education on pedagogy learning What should didactics mean in educating young children The book examines the opportunities for learning that teachers provide for children in early childhood education as well as how children respond to these opportunities It presents empirical studies from a variety of naturalistic settings including mathematics making visual art ecology music dance literacy and story telling as well as learning about gender morality and democracy The authors seek to answer key questions about the processes involved in both teaching and learning What challenges do teachers face as they try to expand children s knowledge in various fields of learning How do they respond to these challenges and what can we learn about children s corresponding uptake What now requires further research One key distinction in researching children s learning is between studies that look at process and those that analyze product In the tradition of Piaget Vygotsky and Werner as well as Mercer and Valsiner s more recent work this book advocates the importance and relative rareness of the former type of study
