Data Fusion Support to Activity-Based Intelligence Richard T. Antony, 2015-11-01 This new resource provides a coherent intuitive and theoretical foundation for the fusion and exploitation of traditional sensor data as well as text based information In addition to presenting a detailed discussion of base level data fusion requirements a variety of higher level exploitation algorithms are presented that perform fully automated relationship discovery rank interest level of entities and support context sensitive behavior understanding both static and dynamic context This book identifies eight canonical fusion forms as well as twenty foundational fusion services to enable formal mapping between models and services Normalization and representation processes for hard sensor data and soft semantic data are described as well as methods for combining hard and soft data Included is a prototype fusion system developed to implement virtually all the presented applications in order to demonstrate the robustness and utility of the design principles presented in this resource The prototype system presented supports a variety of user workflows and all the applications are fully integrated There is extensive fusion system output for unclassified scenarios to permit the reader to fully understand all presented design principles This book also presents context sensitive fuzzy semantic spatial and temporal reasoning

Grasping the Moment Christopher Baber, Richard McMaster, 2016-10-03 The ways in which organizations make use of information available to them to make decisions and manage activity is an essential topic of investigation for human factors When the information is uncertain incomplete or subject to change then decision making and activity management can become challenging Under such circumstances it has become commonplace to use the concept of sensemaking as the lens through which to view organizational behavior This book offers a unique perspective on sensemaking through its consideration of the variety of ways in which Incident Response is managed by the Police As an incident moves from the initial call handling to subsequent mobilization of response to first officer attending a wide range of information is acquired processed and shared and the organization and individuals who work within it face challenges of making sense of the situation to which they are responding Moving from routine incidents to large scale emergencies the authors explore how sensemaking is influenced and affected by the challenges of interoperability within and between organizations In addition the book develops a view of sensemaking which draws on the theory of distributed cognition focusing in particular on the question of how the technology that is available to Police personnel can support and sometimes thwart their ability to make sense of the unfolding situation The main argument in this book is that sensemaking is distributed cognition and that cognitive processes involved in sensemaking are mediated through interactions with artifacts and other agents Three perspectives of sensemaking as distributed cognition are presented making sense with artifacts making sense through artifacts and making sense through collaboration
