

Power and Democracy in Denmark: Still a Viable Democracy

Peter Munk Christiansen* and Lise Togeby†

In its final report, the Danish Democracy and Power Study (1998–2004) pointed to a number of serious democratic problems such as declining political party membership, a growing gap between a competent and resourceful majority and a marginalised minority, the growing influence of the media, the transfer of power from the political to the judicial system, and the democratic deficit associated with European Union membership. However, the report also concluded that overall democratic development in the last 30–40 years has been surprisingly positive. This article assesses the development of democracy in Denmark in relation to the parliamentary chain of governance: the standard used in the final report of the majority of the Norwegian power study group. The conclusion is that, in the case of Denmark, democratic development has not – as the parliamentary committee initially expected – resulted in a systematic weakening of the parliamentary chain of governance.

A report issued by the Danish Parliament in 1997 states that recent developments in Denmark are ‘experienced as a tangible loss of democratic influence and hence diminished trust in the strength and relevance of democratic decision-making processes’ (Beretning nr. 6, 1997, 5).¹ Democratically elected politicians felt they were losing control of democratic development due to the internationalisation, decentralisation and privatisation of public tasks. The report also expressed concerns about a population that was becoming more difficult to control because people ‘demanded greater individual influence on [their] own situation and opportunities’ (Beretning nr. 6, 1997, 5). The conditions for political governance and control were deteriorating; things were headed in the wrong direction.

Based on this perception, the Danish Folketing decided in 1997 to launch a so-called ‘power study’ (or officially, ‘An Analysis of Democracy and Power in Denmark’). The aim was to analyse the state of Danish democracy at the close of the twentieth century, including more recent developments.²

Viable Democracy Michael Margolis,2014-01-14 Towards Democratic Viability J. Crabtree,L. Whitehead,2015-12-22
The book traces the twin processes of economic liberalization and political democratization in Bolivia since the 1980s placing both in their historical context By focusing on the issue of democratic viability it seeks to raise the broader question of the relationship between democratization and the socio economic context in which it takes place In particular it examines the institutional reforms of the early 1990s praised by the World Bank and others and considers their achievements and limitations

The Lockwood Analytical Method for Prediction (LAMP) Jonathan S. Lockwood,2013-09-12 The Lockwood Analytical Method for Prediction LAMP is a systematic technique for predicting short term unique behaviors Using primarily qualitative empirical data LAMP allows the analyst to predict the most likely outcomes for specific research questions across a wide range of intelligence problems such as cyber threats in the U S the possibility of an Al Qaeda attack the likelihood of Iran providing nuclear capability to terrorist groups or the future actions of the Mexican drug cartel LAMP offers an innovative and powerful method for organizing all available information based on the perceptions of the national actors using it to make relevant predictions as to which alternate future is most likely to occur at a given moment in time Its transparent structure enables anyone to see how an analyst gets from point A to point B to produce an intelligence estimate LAMP differs from other analytical techniques in that it is based on determining the relative probability of a range of alternate futures rather than attempting to determine the quantitative probability of their occurrence After explaining its theoretical framework the text leads the reader through the process of predictive analysis before providing practical case studies showing how LAMP is applied against real world problems such as the possible responses of Israel the U S and Lebanon to the behavior of Hezbollah or the competing visions of the future of Afghanistan Evaluation of the method is provided with the case studies to show the effectiveness of the LAMP predictions over time The book is complemented by a website with downloadable software for use by students of intelligence in conducting their own predictive analysis It will be an essential tool for the analyst and the student not only for national security issues but also for competitive intelligence
