aimed to combine recent experimental evidence on early word processing from different techniques together with comprehensive reviews of the current work directions in order to create a landmark forum in which experts in the field defined the state of the art and future directions We were willing to receive submissions of empirical as well as theoretical and review articles based on different computational and neuroscience oriented methodologies We especially encouraged researchers primarily using electrophysiological or magnetoencephalographic techniques as well as eye tracking to participate given that these techniques provide us with the opportunity to uncover the mysteries of lexical access allowing for a fine grained time course analysis The main focus of interest concerned the processes that are held within the initial 250 300 milliseconds after word presentation covering areas that link basic visuo attentional systems with linguistic mechanisms

The Word Isaac Mozeson, 2000. This landmark dictionary proves that English words can be traced back to the universal original language, Biblical Hebrew. Genesis II supports a Mother Tongue thesis, and the Bible also claims that Adam named the animals. This may seem difficult to accept, but then why do the translations of the following animals' names: Skunk, Gopher, Giraffe, and Horse, actually have corresponding meanings in Biblical Hebrew, such as Stinker, Digger, Neck, and Plower? The book features overwhelming data suggesting that the roots of all human words are universal and that words have related synonyms and antonyms that must have been intelligently designed, perhaps by the designer of life himself. The current hypothesis that language evolved from grunting ape men may seem like the flat earth theory after reading this book. The 22,000 English-Hebrew links provide surprising evidence and open new worlds of understanding once we consider that all of these similar words could not be coincidences.
