The Translator's Visibility Larisa Cercel, Alice Leal, 2025-05-05 This collection illuminates the epistemological and philosophical underpinnings of Lawrence Venuti's seminal The Translator's Invisibility extending these conversations through a contemporary lens of epistemic justice while also exploring its manifestations and transposing it to different disciplines and contexts The volume is divided into five parts The opening chapters provide contemporary foundations and a clear epistemological apparatus to conceptualise the debate on the translator's visibility and explore some of the philosophical underpinnings of the debate The following chapters offer analysis of some contemporary manifestations and illustrations of the translator's visibility among translators and translation thinkers and restage the debate in diverse contexts such as in European Union identity politics and Chinese Buddhist translation and disciplines such as film studies A final chapter takes stock of the impact of machine translation to critically reflect on the future of translation and translator studies This book will be of interest to students and scholars in translation and interpreting studies philosophy cultural studies and literary studies as well as the humanities more broadly

Self-Care, Translation Professionalization, and the Translator's Ethical Agency Abderrahman Boukhaffa, 2024-10-10 This book draws on an interdisciplinary approach to investigate the impact of codes of ethics as prescribed in translator organizations proposing alternative ethical pathways grounded in self care ethics to enhance translators symbolic recognition and ethical agency The volume seeks to provide a counterpoint to existing views in translation studies research on ethics by building on work in sociology and philosophical genealogy particularly Foucault's notion of Epimeleia Heautou to establish a framework of self care ethics Featuring analyses of various codes of ethics across different professional associations the book offers a critical examination of the potential impact of codified ethics on translator autonomy and symbolic status and in turn their broader social and planetary responsibilities within their roles as translators beyond the translation community In setting out an alternative charter of ethics which promotes a culture of the self within larger institutions and critical pedagogy within translator education programs the volume charts new directions in emergent debates on ethics in translation practice This book will appeal to scholars in translation and interpreting studies particularly those interested in ethics and sociological and philosophical approaches within the discipline

The Translator's Turn Douglas Robinson, 1991 Despite landmark works in translation studies such as George Steiner's After Babel and Eugene Nida's The Theory and Practice of Translation most of what passes as contemporary theory on the subject has been content to remain largely within the realm of the anecdotal Not so Douglas Robinson's ambitious book which despite its author's protests to the contrary makes a bid to displace the deconstructive term is apposite here a gamut of earlier cogitations on the subject reaching all the way back to Cicero Augustine and Jerome Robinson himself sums up the aim of his project in this way I want to displace the entire rhetoric and ideology of mainstream translation theory which is medieval and ecclesiastical in origin authoritarian in intent and denaturing and mystificatory in

Training the Translator Paul Kussmaul, 1995-03-16 This book begins by investigating through the use of think aloud protocols the mental processes of students when they translate The creative and successful processes observed can be used directly for teaching purposes while the unsuccessful ones can serve to find out where remedial training is needed The book then goes on to discuss methods for improving a translator's competence The strategies offered are based on the pragmatic and semantic analysis of texts from a functional point of view and they include such practical matters as the use of dictionaries and the evaluation of translations and error analysis The book is intended for teachers in translator training institutions but it can also be used by students for self training

The Translator in the Text Rachel May, 1994-11-23 What does it mean to read one nation's literature in another language The considerable popularity of Russian literature in the English speaking world rests almost entirely upon translations the many competing versions of major works and the continuing publication of new and revised translations suggest the inherently complex interplay between language and literature In The Translator of the Text Rachel May analyzes Russian literature in English translation treating it less as a substitute for the original works than as a special subset of English literature with its own cultural stylistic and narrative traditions Using a blend of translation criticism close reading and linguistic analysis the author explores the translator's role as mediator between cultures and among the voices within literary texts

The Translator As Communicator Basil

Hatim, Ian Mason, 2005-08-19 By taking an integrated approach to the practice of translation Hatim and Mason provide a refreshingly unprejudiced contribution to translation theory They argue that the division of the subject into literary and non literary technical and non technical and so on is unhelpful and misleading Instead of dwelling on these differentials the authors focus on what common ground exists between these distinctions The proposed model is presented through a series of case studies each of which has as its focus one particular feature of text constitution while not losing sight of how this contributes to the whole analytic apparatus Topics covered include a comprehensive description of the interpreting process power and ideology in translation discourse errors curriculum design for translator training New Outlook ,1901 The Translator's Invisibility Lawrence Venuti, 2003-09-02 The Translator's Invisibility traces the history of translation from the seventeenth century to the present day It shows how fluency prevailed over other translation strategies to shape the canon of foreign literatures in English and investigates the cultural consequences of the domestic values which were simultaneously inscribed and masked in foreign texts during this period Venuti locates alternative translation theories and practices in British American and European cultures which aim to communicate linguistic and cultural differences instead of removing them The first edition now ten years old is still widely cited by academics in many disciplines and has had a huge influence on the whole field of Translation Studies A new edition offers Venuti the chance to keep this influence alive updating and advancing his argument and answering his few critics The China Review, Or, Notes and Queries on the Far East ,1882 The London Mercury Sir John Collings Squire, 1924 The New Statesman ,1928 Hades; or, the Intermediate state of man Henry CONSTABLE (Chaplain of the City of London Hospital for Diseases of the Chest.), 1873 The Athenaeum ,1872 Journal of the Royal Asiatic Society of Great Britain and Ireland ,1895
