The Gray Dawn Stewart Edward White, 1923 The Gray Dawn Stewart Edward White, 1939 The Gray Dawn (Classic Reprint) Stewart Edward White, 2015-07-11 Excerpt from The Gray Dawn On the veranda of the Bella Union Hotel San Francisco a man sat enjoying his morning pipe The Bella Union overlooked the Plaza of that day a dusty un kempt open space later to be swept and graded and dignified into Portsmouth Square The man was at the younger fringe of middle life He was dressed neatly and carefully in the fashionable costume of the time which was the year of grace 1852 As to countenance he was square and solid as to physique he was the same as to expression he inclined toward the quietly humorous in general he would strike the observer as deliberately philosophically competent A large pair of steelbound spectacles sat halfway down his nose Sometimes he read his paper through their lenses and sometimes for getting he read over the tops of their bows The newspaper he held was an extraordinary document It consisted of four large pages The outside page was filled solidly with short eight or ten line advertisements the second page grudgingly vouchsafed a single column of news items the third page warmed to a column of editorial and another of news all the rest of the space on these and the entire fourth page was again crowded close with the short advertisements They told of the arrival of ships the consignment of goods the movements of real estate the sales of stock but mainly of auctions The man paid little attention to the scanty news and none at all to the editorials His name was John Sherwood and he was a powerful and respected public gambler About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books Find more at www.forgottenbooks.com This book is a reproduction of an important historical work Forgotten Books uses state of the art technology to digitally reconstruct the work preserving the original format whilst repairing imperfections present in the aged copy In rare cases an imperfection in the original such as a blemish or missing page may be replicated in our edition We do however repair the vast majority of imperfections successfully any imperfections that remain are intentionally left to preserve the state of such historical works Gray Dawn Matt Howarth, 2020-09 The apocalypse is imminent But there s hope and her name is Ashlee She has come from the future to prevent the Grey Lords from destroying human civilization But she s young and untrained a stranger in a very strange to her world and being a vampire she has hungers she cannot ignore Her struggle will lead her and a loose group of freedom fighters to a showdown in the snowbound Hamptons where the fate of mankind hangs in the balance The Grey Dawn Stewart Edward White, 1915 GRAY DAWN STEWART EDWARD.
