Abstract

We define an argumentation strategy as the set of rhetorical and stylistic means that authors employ to produce an effective, and often persuasive, text. First computational accounts of such strategies have been relatively coarse-grained, while in our work we aim to move to a more detailed analysis. We extend the annotations of the Argument Annotated Essays corpus (Stab and Gurevych, 2017) with specific types of claims and premises, propose a model for their automatic identification and show first results, and then we discuss usage patterns that emerge with respect to the essay structure, the “flows” of argument component types, the claim-premise constellations, the role of the essay prompt type, and that of the individual author.

1 Introduction

The field of Argument Mining (AM), which has grown into a productive area of research during the last decade (Stede and Schneider, 2018; Lawrence and Reed, 2020), focuses on the tasks of automatic identification and extraction of argumentation in natural language. This includes the detection of argument components, like claims (Daxenberger et al., 2017; Schaefer et al., 2022) and premises (Rinott et al., 2015), and the relations between them (Cooper and Tetreault, 2016). Research in this area depends (inter alia) on using the “right” arguments for the audience, their arrangement, and their linguistic formulation. This is also the case for persuasive essays, which already have been extensively used in AM research (Stab and Gurevych, 2014b; Wachsmuth et al., 2016), but to the best of our knowledge not much for modeling underlying strategies. To contribute to filling this gap we utilize our own claim and premise type annotations to extract semantic “flow patterns” from the Argument Annotated Essays (AAE) corpus (Stab and Gurevych, 2017). We argue that these types and flow patterns are fine-grained and informative to shed more light on the strategies authors of persuasive essays apply to structure their texts.

The contributions of this paper are: 1) We provide a dataset with claim and premise type annotations for the full AAE corpus (Sct. 3) by revising and extending the prior work of Carlile et al. (2018); 2) we trained classification models on our annotations and present first promising results (Sct. 4); 3) we contribute to argumentation strategy modeling by (i) extracting flow patterns of the argument component types, also in relation to the essay structure (roles of different paragraphs), (ii) examining the patterns of claim and supporting premise w.r.t. their types, and (iii) looking into the influences of essay prompt as well as the individual

Overcoming Capitalism Tom Wetzel, 2022-06-28 Overcoming Capitalism is a book about strategy particularly how the powerless can get the upper hand And it's written for everyone not a specialized self selected audience Tom Wetzel carefully explains how capitalism works and how the structure is stacked against us with an eye toward where power lies and how we can tip the scales The book is a twenty first century reworking of the approach to unionism The United States has a dramatic history of workers organizing on the job In the last 70 odd years labor organizations have made peace with owners and wages various protections and safety has diminished All during an era that despite its ups and downs has been extremely profitable for the ownership class Wetzel provides a solution to that failure by showing how a democratic outcome can be built into the method of struggle for social change giving working people the means to ensure they will end up in control of the labor process and the larger society But this isn't the old white guy in a hard hat unionism of the previous century The working class has changed Life under capitalism has changed How we think about unionism must also change While the political and capitalist class wring their hands over the environmental crisis and economic inequality we can see the immediate appeal of a union movement with an expanded mission to wrest control from the wealthy and powerful before they cost shift us into extinction
