Woman Power Technical Education Development

Dr. Renu Mishra

Woman Power Technical Education Development:

Woman Power Benedicta Flossy Pinto, 1993 With reference to Bihar Women and the Political Process Dr. Renu Mishra, 2022-01-22 Political parties are among the most important institutions affecting women's political participation. In most countries, parties determine which candidates are nominated and elected and which issues achieve national prominence. The role of women in political parties is therefore a key determinant of their prospects for political empowerment, particularly at the national level. Because political parties are so influential in shaping women's political prospects, governments and international organizations seeking to advance the participation of women in elections justifiably tend to focus on the role of political parties. Political participation extends beyond parties, however. Women can also become involved in certain aspects of the electoral process through independent action, particularly at the local level and by joining civil society organizations. Some women in post-conflict countries have gained political experience by participating in non-elected transitional assemblies. Women's networks, trade unions, non-governmental organizations, and the media can all provide avenues for women's political participation. In many countries, the rights of women are enshrined in law, and there are no formal legal barriers to women's political participation in election processes. In practice, however, there are often formidable obstacles to women's active participation in politics. The hurdles to be overcome can be particularly daunting for women considering running for office and maybe overwhelming for women in post-conflict countries. Politics has traditionally been a male domain that many women have found unwelcoming or even hostile. Societies in which traditional or patriarchal values remain strong may frown on women entering politics. In addition to dealing with unfavorable cultural predilections, women are often more likely than men to face practical barriers to entering politics, including a paucity of financial resources, lower levels of education, less access to information, greater family responsibilities, and deprivation of rights that has left them with fewer opportunities to acquire political experience. This book gives a critical account of women's participation in politics and the politicization of women's issues. Women's Liberation Movement has concentrated on women's oppression, which includes the sexual division of labor, control of sexuality, and the relation of reproduction to education, jobs, and power over our lives. Office of Institutional Development, Verna Adeline Carley, 1962 Resources in Education, 1979 Women and Empowerment Jaya Kothai Pillai, 1995 Section I1 The Setting2 Rural Women3 Education and Empowerment of Women Section II4 Women Professionals and Empowerment Index Vocational Education of Female Entrepreneurs in China Mary Ann Maslak, 2014-10-17 This book examines the ways in which formal and non-formal education can contribute to women's successful design, development, and operation of small businesses in rural settings. Calling on varied pertinent social theories, the book examines profitable businesses operated by Dongxiang Muslim women in the southern Gansu province of northwestern China. The author explains the multifaceted formula for women's challenges and successes in their business endeavours and goal for financial security. It argues that informal learning is the most important type of education to employ knowledge and skills to earn a living in general and design and operate small businesses by women in rural areas in particular. The book concludes with an original, timely and necessary model for education that could be utilized by the women in this work, one that positions informal education as the primary conduit for successful entrepreneurial work and combines elements of both formal and non-formal educational principles and practices, thus offering support for the successful operation of women's businesses.
