Salas,Jerry N. Hefner,Leonidas Sakell,2012-12-06 Turbulence modeling both addresses a fundamental problem in physics the last great unsolved problem of classical physics and has far reaching importance in the solution of difficult practical problems from aeronautical engineering to dynamic meteorology However the growth of supercom puter facilities has recently caused an apparent shift in the focus of tur bulence research from modeling to direct numerical simulation DNS and large eddy simulation LES This shift in emphasis comes at a time when claims are being made in the world around us that scientific analysis itself will shortly be transformed or replaced by a more powerful paradigm based on massive computations and sophisticated visualization Although this viewpoint has not lacked ar ticulate and influential advocates these claims can at best only be judged premature After all as one computational researcher lamented the com puter only does what I tell it to do and not what I want it to do In turbulence research the initial speculation that computational meth ods would replace not only model based computations but even experimen tal measurements have not come close to fulfillment It is becoming clear that computational methods and model development are equal partners in turbulence research DNS and LES remain valuable tools for suggesting and validating models while turbulence models continue to be the preferred tool for practical computations We believed that a symposium which would reaffirm the practical and scientific importance of turbulence modeling was both necessary and timely

Turbulent Shear Flows 4 L.J.S. Bradbury,F. Durst,B.E. Launder,F.W. Schmidt,J.H. Whitelaw,2012-12-06 The Fourth International Symposium on Turbulent Shear Flows took place at Karlsruhe University in Germany The papers presented at this Symposium encompassed a similar range to that of the previous meetings with greater emphasis placed on experimental work and continued a trend towards the examination of complex flows Once again three dimensional recirculating and reacting flows featured strongly in the programme and were complemented by consideration of two phase flows and discussions of both numerical and experimental techniques The Symposium brought together some 300 participants from all over the world and it was evident that there is a need for Turbulent Shear Flows Symposia in order to obtain and communicate new information useful to researchers in the field of turbulent flows and of interest to engineers who design flow equipment This volume contains 27 papers selected from more than 100 presentations at the Symposium which have been reviewed and edited before publication Together they provide an indication of the status of current knowledge on the subjects represented at the Symposium They are grouped into four sections namely Fundamentals Free Flows Boundary Layers Reacting Flows As in previous volumes in this series each section begins with an introductory article considering the papers which follow in the broader context of available literature and current research
