Video Object Extraction and Representation I-Jong Lin, S.Y. Kung, 2005-11-30 If you have built castles in the air your work need not be lost that is where they should be Now put the foundations under them Henry David Thoreau Walden Although engineering is a study entrenched firmly in belief of pragmatism I have always believed its impact need not be limited to pragmatism Pragmatism is not the boundaries that define engineering just the sometimes unforgiving rules by which we sight our goals This book studies two major problems of content based video processing for a media based technology Video Object Plane VOP Extraction and Representation in support of the MPEG 4 and MPEG 7 video standards respectively After reviewing relevant image and video processing techniques we introduce the concept of Voronoi Ordered Spaces for both VOP extraction and representation to integrate shape information into low level optimization algorithms and to derive robust shape descriptors respectively We implement a video object segmentation system with a novel surface optimization scheme that integrates Voronoi Ordered Spaces with existing techniques to balance visual information against predictions of models of a priori information With these VOPs we have explicit forms of video objects that give users the ability to dress and manipulate video content We outline a general methodology of robust data representation and comparison through the concept of complex partitioning mapped onto Directed Acyclic Graphs DAGs
