The Reality Club:

The Reality Club Reality Club, 1999 The Reality Club John Brockman, 1988 The New Humanists John Brockman, 2003 Collects essays by a variety of top scientists discussing the unique contributions each of them are making to the development of modern thought in an anthology that seeks to forge links between science and the humanities From beat scene poet to psychedelic multimedia artist in San Francisco and beyond, 1948-1978 G. Stern, The Wealth of Reality Margaret A. Syverson, 1999 Margaret A. Syverson discusses the ways in which a theory of composing situations as ecological systems might productively be applied in composition studies She demonstrates not only how new research in cognitive science and complex systems can inform composition studies but also how composing situations can provide fruitful ground for research in cognitive science Syverson first introduces theories of complex systems currently studied in diverse disciplines She describes complex systems as adaptive self organizing and dynamic neither utterly chaotic nor entirely ordered these systems exist on the boundary between order and chaos Ecological systems are metasystems composed of interrelated complex systems Writers readers and texts together with their environments constitute one kind of ecological system Four attributes of complex systems provide a theoretical framework for this study distribution embodiment emergence and enaction Three case studies provide evidence for the application of these concepts an analysis of a passage from an autobiographical poem by Charles Reznikoff a study of first year college students writing collaboratively and a conflict in a computer forum of social scientists during the Gulf War The diversity of these cases tests the robustness of theories of distributed cognition and complex systems and suggests possibilities for wider application Syverson concludes with a discussion of some implications of an ecological approach for composition research pedagogy and assessment presenting the Learning Record model as one practical application of the theory Finally she argues that technological changes have created new environments for composing providing an opportunity to reconsider conventional environments as well Culture John Brockman, 2011-08-16 Theway Brockman interlaces essays about research on the frontiers of science with ones on artistic vision education psychology and economics is sure to buzz any brain Chicago Sun Times on This Will Change Everything Launching a hard hitting new series from Edge.org and Harper Perennial editor John Brockman delivers this cutting edge master class covering everything you need to know about Culture With original contributions by the world leading thinkers and scientists including Jared Diamond Daniel C. Dennett Brian Eno Jaron Lanier Nicholas Christakis and others Culture offers a mind expanding primer on a fundamental topic Unparalleled in scope depth insight and quality Edge.org's Culture is not to be missed Remaking Reality Bruce Braun, Noel Castree, 2005-08-08 This book rejects apocalyptic pronouncements that the end of the millennium represents the end of nature as well Remaking Reality brings together contributors from across the human sciences who argue that a notion of social nature provides great hope for the future Applying a variety of theoretical approaches to social nature and engaging with debates in politics science technology and social movements surrounding race gender and class the contributors explore important and emerging sites where nature is now being remade with considerable social and ecological consequences The essays are organised around two themes capitalising and envisioning nature and actors networks and the politics of hybridity An afterword by Neil Smith reflects on the problems and possibilities of future names For critics and activists alike Remaking Reality provides essential theoretical and political tools to rethink environmentalism and progressive social natures for the twenty first century
