Targeting Of Transfers In Developing Countries Review Of Lessons And Experience:

Targeting of Transfers in Developing Countries David Coady, Margaret E. Grosh, John Hoddinott, 2004 Drawing on a database of more than one hundred anti poverty interventions in 47 countries Targeting of Transfers in Developing Countries provides a general review of experiences with methods used to target interventions in transition and developing countries Written for policymakers and program managers in developing countries in donor agencies and in NGOs who have responsibility for designing interventions that reach the poor it conveys what targeting options are available what results can be expected as well as information that will assist in choosing among them and in their implementation Key messages are While targeting works the median program transfers 25 percent more to the poor than would a universal allocation targeting performance around the world is highly variable Means testing geographic targeting and self selection based on a work requirement are the most robustly progressive methods Proxy means testing community based selection of individuals and demographic targeting to children show good results on average but with considerable variation Demographic targeting to the elderly community bidding and self selection based on consumption show limited potential for good targeting There is no single preferred method for all types of programs or all country contexts Successful targeting depends critically on how a method is implemented The CD ROM includes the database of interventions an annotated bibliography PDF and Spanish and Russian translations of the book PDFs Targeting of Transfers in Developing Countries David Coady, 2004 How

Relevant of Targeting to the Success of an Antipoverty Program? , Revisiting poverty trends and the role of social protection systems in Africa during the COVID-19 pandemic* Abay, Kibrom A., Yonzan, Nishant, Kurdi, Sikandra, Tafere, Kibrom, 2022-10-20 Quantifying the impact of the COVID 19 pandemic on poverty in Africa has been as difficult as predicting the path of the pandemic mainly due to data limitations The advent of new data sources including national accounts and phone survey data provides an opportunity for a thorough reassessment of the impact of the pandemic and the subsequent expansion of social protection systems on the evolution of poverty in Africa In this paper we combine per capita GDP growth from national accounts with data from High Frequency Phone Surveys for several countries to estimate the net impact of the pandemic on poverty We find that the pandemic has increased poverty in Africa by 1.517 percentage points in 2020 relatively smaller than early estimates and projections We also find that countries affected by Fragility Conflict and Violence FCV experienced the greatest increases in poverty about 2.1 percentage points in 2020 Furthermore we assess and synthesize empirical evidence on the role that social protection systems played in mitigating the adverse impact of the COVID 19 crisis in Africa We review social protection responses in various African countries mainly focusing on the impact of these programs and effectiveness of targeting systems Although the evidence base on the protective role of social protection programs during the pandemic remains scarce we highlight important findings on the impacts of these programs while also uncovering some vulnerabilities in social protection programming in Africa We finally draw important lessons related to the delivery targeting and impact of various social protection programs launched in Africa in response to the pandemic

The World Bank Research Observer, 2007 Sustainable Land Use and Rural Development in Southeast Asia: Innovations and Policies for Mountainous Areas Holger L. Fröhlich, Pepijn Schreinemachers, Karl Stahr, Gerhard Clemens, 2013-04-03 This book is based on the findings of a long term 2000 2014 interdisciplinary research project of the University of Hohenheim in collaboration with several universities in Thailand and Vietnam Titled Sustainable Land Use and Rural Development in Mountainous Areas in Southeast Asia or the Uplands Program the project aims to contribute through agricultural research to the conservation of natural resources and the improvement of living conditions of the rural population in the mountainous regions of Southeast Asia Having three objectives the book first aims to give an interdisciplinary account of the drivers consequences and challenges of ongoing changes in mountainous areas of Southeast Asia Second the book describes how innovation processes can contribute to addressing these challenges and third how knowledge creation to support change in policies and institutions can assist in sustainably develop mountain areas and people s livelihoods

Boosting growth to end hunger by 2025: The role of social protection Wouterse, Fleur Stephanie, Taffesse, Alemayehu Seyoum, 2018-10-23 Social protection programs public or private initiatives that aid the poor and protect the vulnerable against livelihood risks can effectively be used to assist those trapped or at the risk of being trapped in chronic poverty These programs aim to address chronic poverty through redistribution and protect vulnerable households from falling below the poverty line Although investments in social protection programs are often motivated by equity concerns they can also contribute to economic growth by for example encouraging savings creating community assets and addressing market imperfections Despite their potential and proliferation not enough is known about social protection programs in Africa The 2017 2018 Annual Trends and Outlook Report ATOR reduces this knowledge gap by focusing on the potential of such programs on the continent and the corresponding opportunities and challenges The chapters of the Report highlight the benefits of these programs not only to their direct recipients but also others in the community through spillover effects They also underscore the importance of appropriate design and sustainability to fully realize the potential of social protection programs

Social Protection in East Africa Harnessing the Future OECD, 2017-04-26 This strategic foresight report assesses the interaction between demographics economic development climate change and social protection in six countries in East Africa between now and 2065 Ethiopia Kenya Mozambique Tanzania Uganda and Zambia The report combines population projections

Revisiting Targeting in Social Assistance Margaret Grosh, Phillippe Leite, Matthew Wai-Poi, Emil Tesliuc, 2022-03-31 Targeting is a commonly used but much debated policy within global social assistance practice This book examines the well known dilemmas in light of the growing body of experience new implementation capacities and the potential to bring new data and data science to bear
