Voice Of The Visitor:

Zoo Talk Patricia G. Patrick, Sue Dale Tunnicliffe, 2012-09-28 Founded on the premise that zoos are bilingual that the zoo in the shape of its staff and exhibits and its visitors speak distinct languages this enlightening analysis of the informal learning that occurs in zoos examines the speech of exhibits and staff as well as the discourse of visitors beginning in the earliest years Using real life conversations among visitors as a basis for discussion the authors interrogate children s responses to the exhibits and by doing so develop an informal learning model and a zoo knowledge model that prompts suggestions for activities that classroom educators can use before during and after a zoo visit Their analysis of the visitor voice informs creative suggestions for how to enhance the educational experiences of young patrons By assessing visitors entry knowledge and their interpretations of the exhibits the authors establish a baseline for zoos that helps them to refine their communication with visitors for example in expanding knowledge of issues concerning biodiversity and biological conservation The book includes practical advice for zoo and classroom educators about positive ways to prepare for zoo visits engaging activities during visits and follow up work that maximizes the pedagogical benefits It also reflects on the interplay between the developing role of zoos as facilitators of learning and the ways in which zoos help visitors assimilate the knowledge on offer In addition to being essential reading for educators in zoos and in the classroom this volume is full of insights with much broader contextual relevance for getting the most out of museum visits and field trips in general

Voice of the Visitor Larry Slonaker, 1986 You are a pregnant woman home alone on an autumn afternoon And you are about to receive a visitor A visitor who cannot be seen Or touched a visitor whose voice can only be heard deep within your own mind As the Voice promises spiritual insight it also demands your full cooperation You are the vessel And you are terrified You are not hallucinating You are not insane You are not dreaming you are living a nightmare Messenger and Visitor, 1912 Radio John Mowitt, 2011-12-07 In a wide ranging cross cultural and transhistorical assessment John Mowitt examines radio s central place in the history of twentieth century critical theory A communication apparatus that was a founding technology of twentieth century mass culture radio drew the attention of theoretical and philosophical writers such as Jean Paul Sartre Walter Benjamin Jacques Lacan and Frantz Fanon who used it as a means to disseminate their ideas For others such as Martin Heidegger Theodor Adorno and Raymond Williams radio served as an object of urgent reflection Mowitt considers how the radio came to matter especially politically to phenomenology existentialism Hegelian Marxism anticolonialism psychoanalysis and cultural studies The first systematic examination of the relationship between philosophy and radio this provocative work also offers a fresh perspective on the role this technology plays today The district visitor's companion William Boyd Carpenter (bp. of Ripon.), 1881 The Family, 1925 The Participatory Museum Nina Simon, 2010 Offers a practical guide to working with community members and visitors to make cultural institutions more dynamic relevant essential places Simon weaves together innovative design techniques and case studies to make a
