Nat Gould, Nathaniel Gould, 1914 Lads' Love Samuel Rutherford Crockett, 1897 The Springtime of Love Albert Edmund Trombly, 1914 The Love-knot Joseph Stirling Coyne, 1858 Love's Comedy Henrik Ibsen, 2019-11-26

Henrik Ibsen's Love's Comedy stands as a landmark in the canon of modern drama encapsulating the dichotomy between romantic idealism and the harsh realities of societal expectations. Written in 1862, this play employs a blend of sharp wit and lyrical prose, challenging the conventions of courtship and the institution of marriage. Ibsen intricately weaves the experiences of his characters, particularly the protagonist Peer, exposing the illusions of love and the constraints imposed by bourgeois morality. Its exploration of existential themes and the quest for personal authenticity emerged against the backdrop of an evolving 19th-century Europe grappling with changing gender roles and social reform. Ibsen, often referred to as the father of modern drama, was deeply influenced by the societal constraints he observed in his native Norway. His early life experiences, coupled with progressive views on women's rights and individual freedom, significantly shaped the narrative framework of Love's Comedy. This play marks a critical turning point in Ibsen's career as he shifted from the romanticism of his earlier works towards a more realist and psychological approach, setting the stage for his later masterpieces. Love's Comedy is a must-read for anyone interested in the evolution of dramatic literature and the complexities of human relationships. Ibsen's incisive critique of societal norms and his quest for truth resonate deeply, making this work highly relevant today. Readers will appreciate the depth of character development and the timeless themes presented, which provoke thoughtful reflections on love, identity, and the constraints of society. In this enriched edition, we have carefully created added value for your reading experience. A succinct Introduction situates the work's timeless appeal and themes. Esmeralda married the man of her choice to avoid an arranged marriage that her father preferred. She wanted and needed a man she could control so she wouldn't have to leave her beloved home and live in a foreign country. It suited her needs until her husband Neville changed those plans to suit his needs. The challenges of managing her plantation weren't as daunting as her bizarre marriage. Did she make a mistake? Will she take control of her life again, or will she be controlled forever by the men in her life? His to Love Linda Viljoen, 2022 Hindu Love Lore in India and the East Yato Dharma Stato Java, 1909 Love's labour's lost.
