MINANGKABAU WORLD VIEW Abraham Ilyas,2014-02-01 In everyday speaking the Minangkabau people will be angry if someone calls them as people who don't know the Four. In their mind, just only the four legs or animals do not know the four. This book presents the main philosophy of Minangkabau, so-called The Four. As one of the ethnic groups in Indonesia, most of the people who live in West Sumatra are Minangkabau. Every Minangkabau has two lifestyles or lifelands: the first is nagari as a motherland and the second is rantau referring to other land apart from their motherland. The consequence of that adat philosophy is that the Minangs always do the Two in their life. They always take care and attention to son and nephew, daughter and niece, kampung and rantau, raso and pareso, cupak asli and cupak buatan, heart and head, quality and quantity, aqimus sholata and atuz zakata, right brain left brain, etc. or in new scientific terms is the digital binary information 0 and 1. All of these the Two says in proverb as Raso bring ascending, pareso bring descending. The Minangkabau philosophy concludes that all the God-creatures always duumvirate, Duumvirate or nan Duo, the Two influences all man's character, never one. Character one only belongs to God and we must believe it. Worldviews and Christian Education W. Shipton, E. Coetzee & R.

Riley, Clifford Wilcox,2017-07-28 Robert Redfield is remembered today primarily as an anthropologist, but during his lifetime Redfield's cross-disciplinary activity reflected a strong interest in infusing anthropological practice with sociological theory. Like a handful of other anthropologists including A R Radcliffe Brown and Bronislaw Malinowski who shared his interests during the 1920s through 1930s, his works came to define a new subfield known as social anthropology. Redfield was distinct in being one of the first Americans to devote himself seriously to social anthropology, a field dominated initially by British scholars. He spent his career at the University of Chicago and his anthropology bore the distinct mark of sociology as developed and practiced at that institution. Indeed, Redfield played a major role in defining what has been called the second Chicago school of sociology. This volume brings together Redfield's most important contributions to social anthropology. During the 1920s, sociology and anthropology constituted a single department at the University of Chicago. Although most students concentrated on sociology or anthropology, Redfield chose to pursue both fields with equal intensity. He adopted as his central interest the leading problematic of the 1920s, the study of social change. Chicago School sociologists approached social change by examining zones of rapid transition within the city, for example, areas populated by recently arrived immigrants with the goal of elucidating general principles or dynamics of social transition Redfield's work can be seen as falling into three distinct theoretical categories 1 the study of social change or modernization 2 peasant studies and 3 the comparative study of civilizations Drawing from articles book excerpts and unpublished papers and letters this work presents Redfield's central contributions in each of these areas Seen as a whole this volume traces Redfield's seminal contributions to the early development of mo
