Worlds Times And Selves:

The Two Worlds ,1929 Time, Self, and Psychoanalysis William W. Meissner,2007-03-06 This book is a study of time particularly of the nature of subjective time that is time as subjectively experienced and lived in contrast with time as measured objectively as for example by a clock The argument first addresses the development of the time experience its origins in infantile experience and traces its variations and modifications during the course of the life cycle As the life course advances concerns about and preoccupations with death play an increasingly important role in attitudes toward and involvement in temporally related contexts The next step is an examination of the phenomenology of time experience itself and its dependence on biorhythms and affective influences An important aspect of this discussion is the relation between time experience as a conscious phenomenon and the functioning of unconscious determinants of the time experience This leads to the question given these conclusions regarding the nature of time experience what implications can we draw for the understanding of the nature and functioning of the self within psychoanalysis The book s final section applies these understandings to the analytic process focusing particularly on the meaning of the time experience in the patient s psychic reality and patterns of enactment around issues of time and time management in the analytic situation The Theosophist ,1922 Self, Interaction, and Natural Environment Andrew J. Weigert,1997-02-20 Self Interaction and Natural Environment helps us as individuals to understand environmental issues and to respond accordingly Although it acknowledges that such issues exist on a worldwide scale it sharpens our focus on the personal level For example it shows that most people do not consider the pollution they cause by operating cars or fertilizing lawns Throughout the text the author links ideas to both social concerns and everyday activities helping readers to comprehend political decisions that involve the environment as well as making them more aware of their own role in that respect The Mirror of the World Christopher Peacocke,2014-02 Christopher Peacocke presents a new theory of subjects of consciousness together with a theory of the nature of first person representation He identifies three sorts of self consciousness perspectival reflective and interpersonal and argues that they are key to explaining features of our knowledge social relations and emotional lives

The Eternal Values Hugo Münsterberg,1909 The World's Parliament of Religions John Henry Barrows,1893 The Sunday-school Times ,1887 The Self and Nature De Witt Henry Parker,1917 The World's Parliament of Religions ,1893 The Self and Nature DeWitt Henry Parker,1917 The Expository Times ,1894 The Self William Ernest Hocking,1928 The Expository Times James Hastings,Ann Wilson Hastings,Edward Hastings,1894 Ivanoff Henry Clay Badger,1891 The Quarterly Journal of the Mythic Society (Bangalore, India). Mythic Society (Bangalore, India),1909 Self-Alteration Jean-Paul Baldacchino,Christopher Houston,2023-11-10 Many of us feel a pressing desire to be different to be other than who we are Self conscious we anxiously perceive our shortcomings or insufficiencies wondering why we are how we are and whether we might be different Often we wish to alter ourselves to change our relationships and to transform the person we are in those relationships Not only a philosophical question about how other people change self alteration is also a practical care can I change and how Self Alteration How People Change Themselves across Cultures explores and analyzes these apparently universal hopes and their related existential dilemmas The essays here come at the subject of the self and its becoming through case studies of modes of transformation of the self They do this with social processes and projects that reveal how the self acquires a non trivial new meaning in and through its very process of alteration By focusing on ways we are allowed to change ourselves including through religious and spiritual traditions and innovations embodied participation in therapeutic programs like psychoanalysis and gendered care services and political activism or relationships with animals the authors in this volume create a model for cross cultural or global analysis of social self change that leads to fresh ways of addressing the self itself

The Theosophical Path Katherine Augusta Westcott Tingley, Gottfried Purucker, 1922

Time, Self, and Social Being Patrick Baert, 1992 The main object of this book is to present the theoretical outline of a temporalized sociology that is a sociology which both takes novelty as its starting point and makes the link between the shorter and longer temporal spans This temporalized sociology draws upon a variety of sources Firstly it builds on the legacy of four theoretical traditions positivism functionalism structuralism and ethnomethodology Although these four traditions are criticized for failing to take a temporalized perspective themselves they yet offer a number of fruitful ideas and concepts which form the basis of this author s approach The core of the argument for a secondary but not unimportant aim is to demonstrate the contemporary significance of G H Mead s writings
