

What is formative feedback?

Formative feedback is feedback given to students during the learning process.

- give evidence of where the learner is up their (strengths) and areas for improvement to the individual learner often
- explain the activity and learning goal
- give students an idea of how the teacher can help progress towards that goal

Formative feedback should be given regularly and often by the teacher or peer and self.

Formative feedback should be given at the appropriate time - activities should be given to the learners while they are still open to the feedback.

Formative feedback should be given in a way that is specific and helpful, not just a general statement of praise or criticism.

How might formative feedback be delivered?

Formative feedback types to consider

Written feedback

- is generally given after the completion of the task
- takes the form of comments or grades

Oral feedback for the task should focus on one or two activities against the completed learning activity

Written feedback could take the form of a sheet with the pupil's name on it. The teacher could then use to progress the pupil through work.

When using written feedback it is important to provide clear feedback to the learner to help progress and support to the pupil.

Oral feedback should be given in a way that is specific and helpful, not just a general statement of praise or criticism.

Steps For Guidance:

Steps for Guidance Peter Masters, 1995-01-01 The subject of how to find God's guidance has become controversial. Some say it comes by dreams, visions, and words of knowledge. Others say that God does not have a specific plan for His people but allows them to take their own decisions as long as they do so in a wise and moral way. By contrast with these ideas, this book presents from Scripture the time-honoured view that Christians must seek God's will in all the major decisions of life. The author outlines six biblical steps for finding God's will, giving special attention to key areas such as courtship and marriage, possessions, and leisure activities. Under what circumstances may Christians seek advancement in career and wealth? Does the Lord determine which church fellowship a believer should join? When is it wrong to leave a church, and when is it right? Clear biblical answers are given.
