Two Adolescents:

Two Adolescents Alberto Moravia, 1999-05-01 Two novels by Alberto Moravia display his gifts as a teller of stories sharp with characterization and deep understanding Agostino is the story of a sensitive cloistered boy who beyond all sense of proportion loves and idolizes his youthful widowed mother The shock of finding he is not the center of his mother's universe is more than Agostino can stand In an instinctive fumbling effort to gain self respect and values Agostino joins a gang of older boys who derisively and callously supply him with a quick and drastic sexual education Agostino finds he has won knowledge without wisdom and in the words of Moravia He has lost his first estate without having succeeded in winning another Luca is more sophisticated knowing and introspective When his active mind questions the conventions and routine of everyday life he comes gradually to the conclusion that life is a monstrous conspiracy a plot to make one conform at the expense of one's soul His answer is a complete negation of the pattern of living an austere and adolescent reaction that leads him unwittingly to the brink of death itself and from which only the purge of violent illness and an unexpected romance save him mentally and physically and show him the way to maturity Two Adolescents Alberto Moravia, 1960 Two Adolescents, 1950

Two Adolescents Alberto Moravia, 1953 Two Adolescents ; Agostino and Disobedience [by] Alberto Moravia [pseud.]. Alberto Moravia, 1960 Dyadic And Group Perspectives On Close Relationships Brett Laursen, 2017-10-03 The papers in this special issue apply two recent data analytic techniques to the study of family and close peer relationships The Actor Partner Interdependent Model incorporates the perspectives of both participants in a dyad into analyses that describe shared and unique views of the relationship The Social Relations Model incorporates the perspectives of all members of a group into analyses that ascribe views unique to individuals and relationships and views shared by the entire group Developmental applications of techniques originally designed for concurrent interdependent data are described Two Adolescents Alberto Moravia, The Contextualisation of 21st Century Skills Esther Care, Mauro Giacomazzi, John Kabutha Mugo, 2024-02-19 This open access book is written for educators and policymakers who seek to empower young people with competencies necessary for fulfilling lives in the 21st century It reports how a large group of educators from government and civil society organisations together with researchers from universities used their curriculum assessment and social economy expertise to develop contextualised definitions of life skills and values and associated assessment tools The book also reports on levels of these competencies of over 45 000 adolescents from a household based assessment conducted in Kenya Tanzania and Uganda The results describe how these adolescents vary in proficiency by region age and other factors providing a resource for national education ministries to factor into policy decisions Given the technical requirements of measuring individuals social emotional and related competencies how is it possible to capture an adolescent's life skills across varied contexts The book provides readers with a pragmatic yet technically robust process for undertaking a large scale assessment program designed to inform policy The Neglected Ape Biruté M.F. Galdikas, R.D. Nadler, N. Rosen, Lori K. Sheeran, 2013-11-11 The orangutan is the most highly endangered species of great ape. Orangutans are threatened by deforestation, poaching, the illegal pet trade, and the isolation and fragmentation of dwindling wild populations. Their conservation is impeded by certain aspects of their ecology, e.g., a rain forest habitat and certain features of their life history, e.g., an eight to twelve year interbirth interval. Added to the U.S. Endangered Species List in 1970, the orangutan is now clearly on the road to extinction. The number of wild orangutans in Borneo and Sumatra is currently estimated to have decreased to between 12,300 and 20,571 individuals. Only 2% of original orangutan habitat is protected, and some of these areas are now being destroyed. Clearly, attention to ecology, demography, censusing, rehabilitation, and conservation is essential if the orangutan is to survive in the wild beyond the next century. The protection of orangutans is a complex, multifaceted problem involving such pressing issues as human poverty, overpopulation, and the economic development of Southeast Asia. Although the orangutan has been placed in Appendix I of the Convention on International Trade in Endangered Species of Wild Fauna and Flora (CITES), more orangutans were sold illegally in Taiwan between 1990 and 1993 than are housed in all the world's zoos. In the past, scientific and public attention has centered on the African apes. For this reason, the sole Asian great ape, the orangutan, has been called the neglected ape.

Emotional Regulation and Human Flourishing: Theoretical and Empirical Perspectives

Claudia Navarini, Blaine Fowers, Juan Andrés Mercado, Angelo Panno, Pía Valenzuela, 2025-04-01. Several authors, i.e., Scheler, Arnold, Goldie, Keltner, and Ekman, agree that traditionally in the history of Western thought, emotions have been seen as enemies of rationality and disruptive of cooperative social relations. However, emotions guide our perceptions of the world, our memories of the past, and even our moral judgments of right and wrong, most typically in ways that enable effective responses to the current situation. For example, studies find that when we are angry, we are acutely attuned to what is unfair, which helps animate actions that remedy injustice. Emotions structure, not just colour, diverse social interactions, such as attachment between parents and children, flirtations, and negotiations between rivals. Thus, emotions organize rather than disrupt rational thinking. According to Arnold, positive or negative, we need to deal with emotions. We need to think about them and what they tell us. As Williams poses, the moral significance of emotions reveals how fact and value come together in the moral agent. Human beings' capacity for ethics arises from the intersection between reason and emotion.

The Adolescent in Turmoil
Allen Z. Schwartzberg, 1998-06-25. An in-depth overview, this book examines major current problems faced by today's adolescents. Authored by 16 leading international experts, the book presents some of the latest research on the depressed and suicidal adolescent, assessment procedures, psychotherapeutic and psychopharmacological treatments, eating disorders, and violence. Scholarly yet practical, this volume will be a vital source of information to all scholars, mental health professionals, and students concerned with adolescent behavior. The book commences with a broad array of developmental issues in normal and pathological adolescents, ranging from self-esteem, gender identity disorders, attachment and detachment, borderline psychodynamics, psychosexual trauma, and finally, dynamic factors in the resilient adolescent. Next, the book focuses on depression the suicidal adolescent and a study of double suicide attempts The aggressive adolescent is addressed from the broad array of sociological psychological biological and psychopharmacological aspects of aggressive behavior as well as an interesting study of parents battered by adolescents Finally an integrated approach to adolescents with eating disorders and anorexia nervosa is discussed This book will be a source of information for all scholars mental health professionals students and allied professionals concerned with the problems of adolescents

International Day of Persons with Disabilities - Children's Disabilities Olaf Kraus de Camargo, Thorsten Langer, Nihad A. Almasri, 2024-10-29 The International Day of Persons with Disabilities IDPD serves to globally promote an understanding of disability issues and mobilize support for the dignity rights and well being of persons with disabilities The theme of the most recent United Nations Day was transformative solutions for inclusive development the role of innovation in fuelling an accessible and equitable world It is in this spirit that Frontiers in Public Health is launching a new article collection inspired by this UN day with a specific focus on children with disabilities and how innovative public health solutions to support them can contribute to making the world a more equitable and prosperous world for all

Social Learning and Innovation in Contemporary Hunter-Gatherers Hideaki Terashima, Barry S. Hewlett, 2016-10-22 This is the first book to examine social learning and innovation in hunter gatherers from around the world More is known about social learning in chimpanzees and nonhuman primates than is known about social learning in hunter gatherers a way of life that characterized most of human history The book describes diverse patterns of learning and teaching behaviors in contemporary hunter gatherers from the perspectives of cultural anthropology ecological anthropology biological anthropology and developmental psychology The book addresses several theoretical issues including the learning hypothesis which suggests that the fate of Homo sapiens and Neanderthals in the last glacial period might have been due to the differences in learning ability It has been unequivocally claimed that social learning is intrinsically important for human beings however the characteristics of human learning remain under a dense fog despite innumerable studies with children from urban industrial cultures Controversy continues on problems such as do hunter gatherers teach If so what types of teaching occur who does it how often under what contexts and so on The book explores the most basic and intrinsic aspects of social learning as well as the foundation of innovative activities in everyday activities of contemporary hunter gatherer people across the earth The book examines how hunter gatherer core values such as gender and age egalitarianism and extensive sharing of food and childcare are transmitted and acquired by children Chapters are grouped into five sections 1 theoretical perspectives of learning in hunter gatherers 2 modes and processes of social learning in hunter gatherers 3 innovation and cumulative culture 4 play and other cultural contexts of social learning and innovation 5 biological contexts of learning and innovation Ideas and concepts based on the data gathered through an intensive fieldwork by the authors will give much insight into the mechanisms and meanings of learning and education in modern humans
