Tactual Perception William Schiff, Emerson Foulke, 2010 Tactual Perception William Schiff, Emerson Foulke, 1982

Handbook of Psychology, Experimental Psychology Irving B. Weiner, Alice F. Healy, Robert W. Proctor, 2012-10-05

Psychology is of interest to academics from many fields as well as to the thousands of academic and clinical psychologists and general public who can't help but be interested in learning more about why humans think and behave as they do This award winning twelve volume reference covers every aspect of the ever fascinating discipline of psychology and represents the most current knowledge in the field This ten year revision now covers discoveries based in neuroscience clinical psychology's new interest in evidence based practice and mindfulness and new findings in social developmental and forensic psychology The World of Touch David Katz, 2013-05-13 For the first time David Katz's classic monograph The World of Touch has been translated into English Regarded as one of the premiere experimental psychologists Katz vigorously opposed the atomism and tachistoscopic mentality typical of the sensory psychology of his day In The World of Touch Katz sought to dispel the invidious distinction between the supposedly higher e.g. vision audition and lower e.g. touch senses To help touch regain its original prominence in the field Katz demonstrated through very simple yet creative experiments how fascinating the abilities of touch are and how valuable the tactual stimulus can be in specifying objects surfaces substances and events In addition Katz emphasized the importance of higher order invariants in the perception of objects and the holistic quality of perception in time as well as space The Psychology of Touch Morton A. Heller, 2013-11-12 Designed to make research on touch understandable to those not specifically involved in tactile research this book provides broad coverage of the field It includes material on sensory physiology and psychophysics thermal sensibility pain pattern participation sensory aids and tactile perception in blind people While the volume is important for researchers in the area of touch it should also prove valuable to a broad audience of experimental and educational psychologists and health professionals The book should also be of interest to scientists in perception cognition and cognitive science and can be used as a supplementary reader for courses in sensation and perception The Senses in Religious Communities, 1600-1800 Nicky Hallett, 2016-03-03 Offering a comprehensive analysis of newly uncovered manuscripts from two English convents near Antwerp this study gives unprecedented insight into the role of the senses in enclosed religious communities during the period 1600-1800 It draws on a range of previously unpublished writings chronicles confessions letters poetry personal testimony of various kinds to explore and challenge assumptions about sensory origins Author Nicky Hallett undertakes an interdisciplinary investigation of a range of documents compiled by English nuns in exile in northern Europe She analyzes vivid accounts they left of the spaces they inhabited and of their sensory architecture the smells of corridors of diseased and dying bodies the sights and sounds of civic and community life its textures and tastes their understanding of it in the light of devotional discipline This is material culture in the raw providing access to a well defined locale and the conditions that shaped sensory experience and understanding Hallett examines the relationships between somatic and religious enclosure and the role of the senses in devotional discipline and practice considering the ways in which the women adapted to the austerities of convent life after childhoods in domestic households She considers the enduring effects of habitus in Bourdieu's terms the residue of socialised subjectivity which was or was not transferred to a contemplative career To this discussion she injects literary and cultural comparisons considering inter alia how writers of fiction and of domestic and devotional conduct books represent the senses and how the nuns own reading shaped their personal knowledge The Senses in Religious Communities 1600-1800 opens fresh comparative perspectives on the Catholic domestic household as well as the convent and on relationships between English and European philosophy rhetorical medical and devotional discourse some animals Combining naturalist style skilful composition and spatial features these artists often gave their art the form of installation where induced motion and parallax flow create immersive experiences Using continuous line technique they created monumental objects and intricate labyrinthine forms
